AMUNDSEN REACHED POLE; KNOWS NOTHING OF SCOTT

Norwegian Explorer Says He Arrived at Southern Polar Goal on December 14 and Will Submit Charts.

Christiana, Norway, March 8.—Two local newspapers today received dispatches from Captain Roald Amundsen announcing that he reached the south pole on Dec. 14, 1911.

The dispatches were sent from Hobart, Tasmania, where Amundsen arrived yesterday. The dispatches read:

"Pole reached fourteenth-seventeenth December."

This evidently means that he remained three days in the vicinity of the pole, probably for the purpose of taking accurate observations as to his position.

Rejoicings over Captain Amundsen's success in reaching the south pole are widespread. The feeling of the people was voiced in the storthing by the president, Frederick Konow. At the opening of the session President Konow amid loud cheers from the members said: "We cannot begin our day's work without expressing our thankful joy and the admiration and pride with which we are all filled by the news that Captain Roald Amundsen and his comrades have reached the south pole and planted the Norwegian flag there. We are proud in the thought that these men are our fellow countrymen and that they have once more succeeded in covering the name of Norway with glory."

The storthing then telegraphed to Captain Amundsen, at Hobart, Tasmania its warmest greetings and thanks.

KNOWS NOTHING OF SCOTT.

Norwegian Denies Knowledge of Britain's Operations.

New York, March 8.—The New York Times received a dispatch today from Raold Amundsen at Hobart, Tasmania, saying that he knew nothing about Captain Scott, the British explorer, and his expedition.

This message was in reply to one sent by the Times, asking Amundsen if he knew anything about Captain Scott and was brought out by the dispatch from Hobart published first by a London newspaper yesterday to the effect that Amundsen, upon his arrival at Hobart had declared that Captain Scott had discovered the south pole.

Another dispatch to the same effect as the one from Amundsen was received from Henry D. Baker, the American consul at Hobart.

Captain Raold Amundsen states that he will submit his charts and all information as to his expedition without delay, according to dispatches from Hobart, received by a special correspondent, at Wellington, New Zealand.

SILENT AS TO HIS RIVAL.

Amundsen Denies Having Telegraphed Regarding Scott.

Hobart, Tasmania, March 8.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, denies having telegraphed anything regarding Captain Robert Scott or the British expedition.

Captain Amundsen up to the present is the only member of the air-arctic expedition who has landed from the Fram.

ARBITRATION A DEAD ISSUE NOW

Senate Action Likely to End Participation by America.

DIXON MAKES DENIAL

Washington, March 8.—Summing up the action of the senate yesterday in stripping the proposed arbitration treaties with France and Great Britain of their vital features, government officials who followed the negotiations of the two pacts agreed today that participation by the United States in general arbitration of international difficulties was a dead issue so far as this session of congress was concerned and probably for many years to come.

There is little thought that President Taft will submit the treaties in their mangled form to either of the powers for possible approval. The amended treaties sent to the white house today will await the return to Washington of President Taft and if routine is followed he will send them to the state department. Secretary Knox, who is today due at Amapala on the west coast of Honduras, will be advised by cable of what has happened and as a matter of form some consultation must be had between the president and the secretary before the next step can be taken.

As a matter of courtesy the British and French ambassadors will be informed of the senate's action, but that will not be regarded as an invitation to them to accept the amendments, unless followed by further representations from the state department.

Dixon Enters Denial.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt, denounced as a forgery a telegram published in a local paper this morning purporting to be the text of a message sent by Senator Dixon to Col. Roosevelt yesterday. The supposed telegram was as follows:

"Theodore Roosevelt, New York:

"The senate has ratified your contention in regard to the treaties. Our democratic friends have come to our rescue. (Signed) "JOSEPH M. DIXON."

"No such telegram, nor any telegram of similar import, was sent by me to Col. Roosevelt," said Mr. Dixon in a statement given out by the Roosevelt headquarters. "I only sent a brief wire apprising him of the vote of the senate. There can be no excuse for this most flagrant and evidently premeditated forgery."

Commenting last night on the senate's action, Senator Dixon said: "The vote of the senate upon section three of the treaties must be considered as absolutely ratifying the principle Mr. Roosevelt had been contending for, that the constitutional prerogatives of the senate should not be encroached upon."

INJURED VICTIMS OF WABASH WRECK SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

Four Dead and Forty Hurt When Continental Limited Plunges Down Embankment Near West Lebanon, Ind.

ESCAPED INJURY.

Mrs. Ben Levy, a sister of Mrs. Benjamin Rothschild, of this city, was a passenger aboard the Continental limited, en route to her home in Moberly, Mo., after a visit in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Levy telegraphs friends here that she escaped injury, spent the night in Danville and would proceed on her journey today.

Danville, Ill., March 8.—The persons injured in the wreck of the Wabash Continental limited near West Lebanon, Ind., last evening, in which four persons were killed and two score injured are resting well in St. Elizabeth's hospital in this city this morning and it is believed all will recover with the possible exception of the negro cook, name unknown, who is unconscious this morning, and physicians state there is no hope for his life.

The bodies of Mrs. D. B. Good, of St. Louis, and that of Mrs. Fred Grant, of Adrian, Mich., are at West Lebanon. Relatives have been notified of their deaths and it is expected the bodies will be claimed today.

Tracks Still Blocked.

The Wabash tracks are still blocked and it will be many hours before traffic is resumed.

The wreck was due to a broken rail. Eight cars, including three Pullmans, left the rails and rolled down a thirty-foot embankment. The day coach and smoker were literally crushed into kindling wood. Both of these coaches were well filled with passengers, all of whom were more or less injured. The mail car, which is made of steel, went down the bank with the remainder of the train, but was not damaged and the five mail clerks escaped injury.

Four Motherless Children.

The Wabash officials have found it impossible to get into communication with the friends or relatives of Mrs. Lula Grant, who was killed in the Wabash wreck. Her body is still at West Lebanon, but her four children are in a hospital here. They are not injured but are too young to tell where they live. Mrs. Grant boarded the train at Adrian, Mich., with a Wabash pass. She is described as having been about 30 years of age, weight 150 pounds, five feet in height, fair complexion, brown hair and wore brown corduroy suit and velvet coat. She wore two rings, one a two-set pearl and the other a plain band ring with the initials "L. G." engraved on it.

Entire Train Left Track.

The wreck occurred at 4:50 o'clock and the entire train left the rails. Passengers were preparing to eat dinner when the train approached the Redwood

WIFE SHOT HIM WHILE DREAMING

Unique Theory Advanced by Victim of Mysterious Shooting.

GRACE MAKES WILL

Atlanta, Ga., March 8.—That his wife shot him unintentionally while dreaming was the unique theory said to have been advanced today by Eugene H. Grace, critically wounded by a bullet, while his wife is in jail in connection with the mysterious case. It came as a part of the maze of conflicting charges which have baffled local police officers.

Mrs. Grace, who was re-arrested yesterday and whose husband from his bed caused to be issued a writ to recover several insurance policies from her, is still held without bail. She persists in saying she is innocent.

Grace this morning called his attorneys to the bedside and made his will. While details were not given out it is supposed he named his mother, Mrs. S. L. Hill, of Newman, Ga., as beneficiary. The value of the estate is not generally known. It consists of life insurance policies of about $27,000, some Atlanta real estate, property in Newman left to him by his father and his interest in a local building concern.

SON FINDS FATHER IN PRISON AFTER MANY YEARS.

Oakland, Cal., March 8.—After many years of separation, father and son met in a cell of the city prison here last night, when Harry Miller, a young tailor of San Francisco, disclosed his identity to Samuel Miller, a self-confessed wife murderer, wanted in Memphis, Tenn.

The young man had gone to the jail after reading the account of Miller's arrest in the daily papers. The pair were allowed to exchange confidences for half an hour.

Miller killed his wife nine years ago, following a quarrel. While awaiting the death penalty he escaped from prison and became a wanderer. He says he killed his wife in self-defense.

4 DEAD, 9 HURT IN RAIL WRECK

Accident on Georgia Railroad Takes Toll of Life.

ORDERS OVERLOOKED

Social Circle, Ga., March 8.—Four persons were killed and nine injured, six of them seriously, when passenger train No. 4 of the Georgia railroad, which left Atlanta at midnight collided head-on with a freight train three miles from here at 2:15 o'clock this morning. The killed were negroes.

Their bodies are buried in the wreckage and efforts to remove them have failed. They were pinned beneath the negro coach, which was telescoped by the baggage car.

The two locomotives, telescoped by the force of their crash, were demolished. The first class passenger coach and the Pullman cars remained on the track and while some of the sleeping passengers were considerably shaken up, none of them was injured.

Social Circle is 55 miles from Atlanta and 115 miles from Augusta. The dead:

Four negroes, names not known.

The injured: H. T. Nelson, mail clerk, Atlanta.

Engineer W. C. Baugham, Augusta, Ga., probably fatal.

W. E. Carey, mail clerk, Atlanta.

Fred Bailey, baggage master, Harlen, Ga.

S. A. Pool, mail clerk, Atlanta.

Joe Brown, fireman.

W. S. Clark, of Thompson, Ga., passenger, face cut, not serious.

Officials of the road stated that the wreck resulted from the overlooking of standing orders for freight trains to take a siding at Rutledge station, between Augusta and Social Circle, and thus to give the passenger train the right of way.

KNEW IT WAS COMING.

Wreck Train Was on the Way Before Crash Actually Occurred.

Augusta, Ga., March 8.—Before two trains on the Central of Georgia railway that were speeding head on toward each other had actually crashed early today a wrecking train was hurrying on its way to the point where the passenger and heavy freight were expected to collide. A freight conductor who discovered the error that he know would cause a wreck, gave the alarm, and before the doomed trains crashed, help was speeding toward them. Four persons were killed and a dozen hurt in the wreck.

PRESIDENT HEARS THINGS ARE "LOOKING UP" IN OHIO

Mr. Taft Starts Three Days' Campaign in Ohio and Illinois, Preaching Prosperity at Alliance.

NOTHING TO IT BUT ROOSEVELT

That is Gist of Report to Roosevelt District Conference.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Louis N. Litman, of Lagrange, was elected district organizer or manager by the Roosevelt republican gathering in Fort Wayne this afternoon. He was placed in nomination by Attorney John Clapman, of Columbia City, and the nomination was seconded by Editor Rerick, of Lagrange, by E. V. Harris and W. C. Geake for Allen county, and by representatives of other counties as well. His election followed by acclamation. Mr. Litman was not present.

Roosevelt republicans of the Twelfth congressional district gathered at the assembly room of the court house in this city this afternoon to inaugurate in earnest the campaign to defeat the renomination of President Taft and to make Theodore Roosevelt the nominee of the republican party.

The crowd was a large one, every seat being occupied, while many out of curiosity lined the walls. Col. D. N. Foster, of this city, presided as chairman and among the speakers were Lee J. Hartzell, until recently republican county chairman; Charles S. Bash, and J. Roscoe Fertich, an Indianapolis attorney.

Mr. Landis Not There.

The crowd was disappointed because of the absence of former Congressman Fred Landis, of Logansport, who had been announced as the chief speaker of the day. His absence was accounted for by a telegram received by Austin W. Stults, and reading as follows:

"The sickness of my mother will prevent my being with you today. Very sorry indeed. Work day and night to send two Roosevelt delegates to Chicago. We will do so in this district.

"FREDERICK LANDIS."

The object of the gathering was the selection of a district chairman to assist in the organization of the six counties of the district for Roosevelt in the effort to send Roosevelt delegates from this district to the Chicago convention. Mr. Hartzell, in calling the meeting to order, declared his belief that 75 per cent of the republicans are for Roosevelt, but he counselled moderation in all that is done by the Roosevelt boosters, so that if Mr. Taft is chosen as the party's leader, the entire party may work for him enthusiastically.

From Over the District.

Overwhelming Roosevelt sentiment among republicans was shown in reports from practically all parts of the district. A. Frisinger, of Angola, when called on for a report, stated that he had sent out many letters to ascertain

Alliance, Ohio, March 8.—President Taft started his three days' campaign Taft started his three days' campaign with a long talk about political conditions in Ohio, with L. C. Laylin and Wm. H. Miller, two of the Taft leaders. Mr. Laylin said that things were "looking up" in Ohio.

Arrangements were made here to have the president's train stop at a dozen stations through Ohio during the day and he probably will make many rear platform speeches. At Salem the plants of the town shut down for fifteen minutes to enable the workmen to see the president and a great crowd of men, women and children were awaiting the arrival of the train. The president had no opportunity to address the crowd and as the train pulled out he waived his hand and bowed to a crowd of school girls carrying flags.

Preaches Prosperity.

The president made his first rear platform speech at Alliance to a large crowd. He preached prosperity and said in part:

"Prosperity is the first thing that we all should seek, because it means happiness to everybody. We may have a prosperity that is merely specious. We may have our mills running to the full, and yet there may be something of corruption in society and in the violation of law through trusts and discrimination of railways that make the prosperity one that really does not help us in the end. But omitting that and assuming that everybody is obeying the law—and we are trying to make them obey the law, it is prosperity and business that we should look to and the agitation that creates a lack of confidence among those who have capital invested is not for the good of the people. Therefore what we want is to have the quiet confidence that makes everybody look after his own business and put as much money in it as he can, and then jobs will be many, wages will go up, we will all have money to buy shoes for our children and those of us that like comfort can enjoy it.

"What I would press upon you and what I would press upon myself is the necessity for inspiring confidence in our government. That makes prosperity. If we have prosperity, then it is the poorest man that gets the best out of it. When we don't have prosperity the rich can be comforted still, but it is the poor man that suffers."

AGAIN EXCUSED AS JUROR.

New York, March 8.—Colonel Roosevelt made his fourth trip to Mineola court house by automobile this morning to report as a talesman for jury duty. He was excused again, however, and he came on to New York to his editorial offices. He had nothing to say on politics.

COMING TO FORT WAYNE.

Indiana Motion Picture Managers to Hold Meeting Here.

The Indiana Motion Picture Exhibitors' league is coming to Fort Wayne for a convention at the Anthony hotel March 19 and 20, and the program will include talks relative to the motion picture business and some diversions as well.

The Congressman's Hat

"WHERE," inquired his friend, do you get those hats?"

The question was addressed to Congressman Cyrus Cline. It will be noted that the friend did not say "Where did you get that hat?" Such a phrasing of the inquiry would have been construed as rude. So he said, "Where do you get those hats?" He meant not only the hat which adorned the head of the congressman at the moment of the inquiry but also the many that have gone before. Because all of Mr. Cline's hats for many years past have been exactly alike in shape.

"Well, I'll tell you," responded the congressman. "I get those hats in Washington. And they are the very latest style, too. I know they are because they are made by a leading, reliable hatter. He makes them to my order, each one just like its predecessor. I believe you will agree with me that a hat which is perfectly new and comes from the hands of a leading, reliable maker is always the latest style. Yes? Your judgment is sound.

"You see," continued the congressman, "hats are like democratic principles. When you find something that just suits conditions, there isn't any sense in substituting transient notions in their places. It is on this policy that I buy my hats. Years ago, I found a good thing—a shape which suits me—and I've stuck to it ever since."

"They are the very latest style."

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

Converted Clown of the Wallace Shows Consecrates His Life to Soul Saving.

Peru, Ind., March 8.—After making thousands of persons laugh during the ten years he has been a clown with the Wallace circus, which was quartered here, Raleigh L. Wilson, of Lincoln, Neb., has resigned and hereafter will devote his time to the saving of souls. In his letter of resignation, received at the circus headquarters, Wilson says that, while he has no doubt of his ability to qualify as a minister, he wishes to reserve the right to rejoin the circus if he ever felt inclined to reenter the sawdust ring. Wilson got his start toward the ministry in a peculiar way. Last summer, while in Minnesota, he took a walk between performances and, nearing a small church on the outskirts of the town, decided to enter. He was taken in charge by one of the Methodist elders, escorted to the pulpit and introduced as "Brother Pape." He thought it a good joke and decided to go through with it. He was called on to speak, and after he concluded, he says, the church dignitaries complimented him on his excellent sermon. The result was that the incident led to his decision to enter the ministry and devote his life to the reclamation of men from their sins.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS

Made in Lutheran Edifice in Adams County.

Decatur, Ind., March 8.—At a meeting of the building committee of the Emanuel Lutheran church in Union township, held in the law office of Attorney Dore B. Erwin, the contract for the remodeling of the church was let to Daniel T. Weikel, of this city. The improvements to be made will be quite extensive, including the raising of the church and a new foundation placed thereunder. A steam heat furnace will also be installed. The interior work will include the frescoing of the walls, repainting of the woodwork and otherwise improved to place it in the best condition possible. The spire, which at present reaches a height of 117 feet, will be reduced forty feet. The work will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit and the contractor expects to have the same completed by the first of June.

For Not Giving "The Other Man" Half of the Road.

Hartford City, Ind., March 8.—Harrison Thornburg was found guilty and fined $5 and costs in Justice Lucas' court yesterday on complaint of Dr. R. E. Wise, who charged Thornburg with failing to give him half of the road when he attempted to pass the defendant's rig in an auto. His car was ditched and slightly damaged. Thornburg appealed the case.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty and makes it grow.

SLOT MACHINES ARE PLACED UNDER BAN

The Mayor at Hartford City Orders Gambling Devices Out of Business Houses.

Hartford City, Ind., March 8.—The nickle slot machines have been ordered out of the cigar stores and restaurants and orders been issued by Mayor Sweigart to the saloonkeepers who permit women to frequent their places that this will not be tolerated.

At first the penny machines were permitted and then an assortment of 5, 10 and 25 cent machines began to arrive of all kinds and in most places children were permitted to play them without molestation.

Orders have been issued to the cigar store proprietors not to permit minors to play in their places. The order has been expected as most of the cigar stores have been filled with gambling devices and the sale of tobacco has been small in comparison to the gambling side lines. The slot machine games have been played so strong that it is not wondered that an order has been issued by the city officials to check them.

One or two saloon keepers who have been harboring women in and around their places have been given their orders to cease it and the revocation of a few licenses would serve to impress some of the worst offenders.

How to Remove a Poor Complexion

(From London Fashions.)

Cosmetics can never really help a poor complexion; often they are positively harmful. The sensible thing is to actually remove the thin veil of stifling, half-dead scarf skin and give the fresh, vigorous, beautiful young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe.

This is best done by merely applying mercolized wax at night, like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. The wax can be obtained from any well stocked druggist. It absorbs the disfiguring cuticle gradually, harmlessly, leaving a brilliant natural complexion. Of course this also takes with it all such blemishes as red blotches, moth patches, liver spots, blackheads, pimples, etc. As a freckle remover and general complexion beautifier this old-fashioned remedy is unequaled.

BRYAN, BERGER AND ROOSEVELT

Lined Up in Same Category as "Enemies of Free Government."

DIES PAYS RESPECTS

Washington, March 8.—Former President Roosevelt, Wm. J. Bryan and Representative Victor Berger, of Wisconsin, socialist, were branded in a speech in the house yesterday by Representative Dies, of Texas, democrat, as being "among the foremost enemies of free government in America today."

Mr. Dies insisted that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan were socialists and he coupled their names with those of Mr. Berger and the McNamara brothers.

"Berger is over there," said Mr. Dies, pointing dramatically in the direction of the house office building, where the Lawrence, Mass., strike inquiry was proceeding, "preening himself as the great friend of labor. It is high time that the country should know just what Mr. Berger stands for. I am not now appealing to any district or to any party but to my colleagues here to recognize the peril of socialism."

The legislative activities of the Wisconsin socialist member then were reviewed by Mr. Dies. These, he said, among other things, included abolition of the power of the president and both of the supreme court and the senate and two measures which, Mr. Dies charged were intended "to save from the clutches of the law, the McNamara brothers and others who afterward might find themselves similarly in the toils of the law."

"Space forbids me to describe all the Berger bills," said Mr. Dies, "but as illustrating the socialist interpretation of the doctrine of 'equal rights to all and special privileges to none' when applied to a socialist in office, I call attention to H. R. 11382, introduced by Mr. Berger June 8, 1911. That measure to use its own words was 'A bill to provide an automobile for the official use of the committee on the District of Columbia.'

"I need not say that Mr. Berger was a member of that committee at the time he introduced the bill.

"Mr. Berger, I may say, yields to no man, living or dead, in his desire to disrupt the constitution and destroy the liberties of the people under a representative democracy. In his desire for a re-enactment of chaos, Mr. Berger is as earnest, if not as vociferous as the lion tamer who roars from the peaks of Sagamore Hill."

Contrasting Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan the latter, said Mr. Dies, openly advocated socialist doctrine while the former president professed to be opposed to socialism.

"Roosevelt seeks to walk in the path the Caesars trod," he said.

"Mr. Bryan will be content with a million new subscribers for his paper. Roosevelt wants to emulate the bad example of Diaz of Mexico and break down the constitutional barriers against presidential succession. Mr. Bryan gives aid and encouragement to Roosevelt as against the democratic party and for the principles of democracy, as written in the constitution, he offers no word of encouragement."

Mr. Dies charged that Mr. Bryan endorsed Col. Roosevelt's policies while condemning Speaker Clark, Governor Harmon, of Ohio, and Representative Underwood, majority leader of the house.

PENNSYLVANIA NOT THERE.

Officials Did Not Appear at Hearing on Revised Estimates.

None of the officials of the Pennsylvania company appeared before the board of public works today at the hearing on the modified estimates and plans for grade separation at College and Union streets. The board arranged plans for three instead of four tracks and reduced the original estimates about 20 per cent.

The railroad officials at the last meeting said there was little use to proceed with this until the whole scheme west of Calhoun street has been agreed upon. The company has fifteen days in which to appeal from the action taken today.

the sentiment of his county (Steuben) and that more than 92 per cent. showed a preference for Roosevelt.

On account of the absence of Louis Litman no report was given from Lagrange county, although he is quoted as believing sentiment there strong for Roosevelt.

Lloyd T. Bailey, of Columbia City, reported that some time ago a newspaper vote showed 3 to 1 leaning to Roosevelt in Whitley county, and declared that a newspaper report that L. M. Meiser is a candidate for delegate to the national convention is erroneous.

In Other Counties.

A Noble county representative stated that 90 per cent. of the republicans there favor Roosevelt. Dr. Stephenson, of DeKalb, reported a strong Roosevelt sentiment in his county.

Lee J. Hartzell, reporting for Allen county, gave a glowing report of the progress of the Roosevelt sentiment here. He said his telephone and his mail carrier have been taxed to the limit by voters who want to be known as Roosevelt followers.

Col. Foster Speaks.

In accepting the chair, Col. Foster said he had presided as chairman during the Harrison campaign and described a strenuous political siege. He made comparisons between conditions then and now and urged moderation in the conduct of the campaign. However, he impressed the necessity for continued effort along legitimate lines to make Col. Roosevelt the nominee of the party.

Charles S. Bash was called upon and made a brief but vigorous speech which stopped abruptly with the remark: "I could talk all day and all night along this line, but what is the use when we are all of one mind!"

J. Roscoe Fertich, of Indianapolis, representing the Roosevelt state headquarters, was then introduced as the principal speaker of the afternoon.

Mr. Fertich's Address.

Mr. Fertich, in opening, said:

"One of the finest attributes of a good republican is the ability to consider the pros and cons of matters and men which is to determine the success or failure of the republican party; to get mad and may be cuss, but finally join arms with the former foeman and go down in a united force to defeat our common enemy, democracy.

"I am a republican and will vote for Mr. Taft if he is nominated at the Chicago convention in June. This is the fourth district meeting I have attended, besides several county gatherings, in various parts of the state, and I believe there is no question that the Roosevelt sentiment is strong enough to give us all the delegates from Indiana. All we need is a fair show at the primaries. Our sole attitude from a state headquarters standpoint is simply this, on the word of Warren G. Sayre, that 'we do not love Taft the less, but Roosevelt the more.'

"Mr. Taft is the titular head of the republican party, but Theodore Roosevelt is the titular head of and God-raised leader of the common people. His Columbus speech is the quintessence of diagnosis and treatment of Uncle Sam's political ills.

"He said that Roosevelt does not return from abroad with all the new fangled notions and isms which he found existing in foreign countries, but returns with their theories of government which, to his mind, in our own country is the greatest check in securing much needed reform. "This," he declared, "is the judiciary. From a common sense viewpoint we, in this country are one hundred years behind the times in this departure of the government. The leading members of the bar in Germany, recognized to be world-wide leaders, in scientific law, are very seriously considering placing an experienced business man upon their supreme bench, who is unversed in legal technicalities, under the theory that he will serve as a check to super-sensitive regard for technicalities and thus give a practical viewpoint to the case."

Counties to Organize.

Capt. W. A. Kelsey spoke briefly prior to the election of Mr. Litman, and after this was completed the counties arranged for meetings for county organization as follows:

Whitley county.—Monday evening, March 11: Steuben county, Tuesday evening; Lagrange county, Wednesday evening; DeKalb county, Thursday evening; Noble county, Friday evening.

Allen county proceeded to perfect its organization this afternoon.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lichtsinn, of 921 Washington boulevard east, a boy.

CALERO ENTERS STRONG DENIAL

Mexico Has No Intention of Holding Americans as Hostages.

QUITE THE OPPOSITE

Washington, March 8.—Emphatic denial has been made to American Ambassador Wilson at Mexico City by Manuel Calero, the Mexican minister for foreign affairs, of the interview accredited him declaring Americans and other foreigners would be held as hostages should a foreign force invade Mexico.

Ambassador Wilson in a dispatch to the state department today said Calero had declared his sentiments were exactly the opposite of those expressed in the alleged interview. He also asserted he would not let the matter rest with a mere denial, but intended to pursue a rigid investigation of its origin.

Further disaffection among former Madero followers was reported today. Miranda, a prominent general in the Madero revolution, is said to have a large force under his command near the capital.

Affairs in the state of Chihuahua appear to have quieted down since the revolutionists took hold and there are approximately 2,000 rebels now reported in Chihuahua City.

Miss S. P. Cheek, an American, is reported safe and well in Durango.

Major General Leonard Wood, chief of the general staff, denied today that two more regiments had been ordered to the border.

AMUNDSEN REACHES THE SOUTH POLE

Nobody is allowed to go on board the vessel under any pretext whatever.

The explorer says that he is pleased with the results of his expedition, but otherwise maintains absolute silence on the subject.

Captain Amundsen intends to stay at Hobart for a few days. He will then go to Australia and give a few lectures there, afterward departing for Europe by the circuitous route of Buenos Ayres, then round Cape Horn up to the Bering straits and through the northwest passage and the arctic ocean.

The confirmation of Captain Roald Amundsen's attainment of the south pole on Dec. 14, 1911, received today from the explorer himself at Hobart, Tasmania, sets at rest the conflicting reports current on the subject yesterday. A dispatch published by the Daily Express in London yesterday morning, dated Wellington, New Zealand, declared that Amundsen had stated that Scott had reached the south pole. It was assumed that this declaration indicated that Amundsen himself had not succeeded in attaining the object of his expedition, and credit was generally given to the British explorer.

Nothing has been heard from Captain Scott and Amundsen now denies that he said or telegraphed anything referring to his British rival or his expedition.

The honor for the achievement of reaching the south pole must now be given to the Norwegian explorer until Captain Scott announces the result of his expedition.

Captain Amundsen has for many years been considered one of the most daring and competent of arctic and antarctic explorers. A sailor from his youth, he started polar research at the age of 25, when he participated in the Belgio ant-arctic expedition under command of Gerlach. He was first officer of the vessel and the voyage lasted from 1897 to 1899. On his return he made up his mind to continue polar research, but this time he decided to go to the north in an endeavor to discover the northwest passage. He prepared himself for the task by undergoing a course of two years' study in magnetism and meteorology after which he sailed for the north from Christiana on board the Gjoa with a crew of only eight men, on June 16, 1903. Proceeding to Lancaster sound, he sailed past Cape Adelaide and King William land and Ross strait. The vessel wintered in that part. For many months Amundsen drifted along and finally on Aug. 26 met an American whaler to the east of Cape Bathurst. He ultimately brought his little vessel through the Bering strait and thus for the first time accomplished the northwest passage. During the voyage he determined exactly the position of the magnetic pole. Altogether he was three years away from Norway.

The Fram, which Captain Amundsen selected for his latest expedition, has been used for many years in arctic exploration. From 1893 to 1896 during the expedition of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, she covered a journey of about 7,000 miles in the artic ocean, 3,000 miles of this being accomplished while she was frozen solid in the ice. She was not damaged at all during this voyage.

Captain Amundsen left Buenos Ayres on his present trip toward the close of 1910 with a small party of Norwegians, all of them experienced in arctic work. He took with him a large pack of Siberian dogs and his men were all provided with skis for traversing the ice. Captain Amundsen's party made its base and winter quarters 80 miles nearer the south pole than his British rival.

Nothing was heard from the expedition for many months until the arrival of the Fram was reported two days ago at Hobart, Tasmania.

WANTS WORLD-WIDE PROBE.

Bill for International Inquiry Into High Cost of Living.

Washington, March 8.—An international inquiry into the high cost of living was proposed in a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Crawford, of South Dakota. The bill would appropriate $20,000 to enable the president to extend invitations to other nations to participate in a general conference.

Court of Ben Hur, No. 15, went to Decatur last evening with their team and initiated a class of thirty-eight candidates to the lodge. There were fifty-two ladies and gentlemen in the party from this city and they enjoyed a social session after the business was transacted.

TAFT AND BRYAN BUTTONS DID IT

Old Suit to Recover for Campaign Buttons is on Hearing.

CASES IN THE COURTS

A suit brought by John B. Chaddock against Clyde Bookwalter to recover $150 for Taft and Bryan campaign buttons was taken up in the superior court today and will probably be submitted to a jury within the next day or two.

Bookwalter bought a consignment of buttons from Chaddock and sent a man out in the country to sell them. The man turned in plenty of orders and Bookwalter bought a big stock, but the orders were found to be bogus.

The purchaser sent all the buttons back that he did not use and paid for those he sold. Chaddock didn't want campaign buttons after the election, so he sued to recover for all that were sold. Judge Sol A. Wood is hearing the case.

Wife Gets the Daughter.

In the divorce case of Louise Rippe against Henry C. Rippe, sent to Wells county for trial, the wife was granted a decree, the custody of their daughter and $400 alimony. She asked for $6,000 and the custody of two children, but one died during the time the case was pending. He was ordered to pay $10 a month for the support of the child.

Wife Asks $5,000 Alimony.

Blanche Zorbaugh entered suit today asking a divorce from Phillip Zorbaugh and also demanding $5,000 alimony. They were married in 1896 and she charges that he cursed her, called her vile names and threatened her. Judge John H. Aiken filed the suit.

Threatened to Poison Him.

Don A. Cadwell says in his divorce complaint against Sadie Cadwell that after she induced him to go into the hotel business she threatened to poison him. She is also charged with nagging and he says that she insisted on a deed for his property and that in an effort to compromise their difficulties a minister was called in but that nothing was accomplished.

Road Superintendents Named.

The county commissioners today named fifteen of the seventeen road superintendents for the county for the ensuing year and the list is as follows:

Fred Hegerfeld, Hoagland road; Geo. Meyer, Monroeville; August Pepe, Ridge road; Adam Ehling, Liberty road; Daniel Stoner, New Haven; Frank Killian, Mimmee stone road; Louis Vanderly, Jones road; Val Goeglein, Maysville; Henry Young, Parent road; Henry Bernling, Hayden road; Will Tonkel, Leo road; Chris Solomon, Lima road; Jake Heidenrich, Goshen road; Charles Ross, Eel River road; Charles Moellering, Decatur road; Fred Bushman, Bluffton road; August Sephel, Huntington and Liberty Mills roads.

Road Matters Disposed Of.

The commissioners appointed William Wilke, Frank A. Phillips and J. B. Emrick viewers on the Cook road. W. H. Scheiman, Frank Rohan and Dan Falvey were selected as viewers on the Jordan road. Both are located in Wayne township.

Notes of the Courts.

A verdict in favor of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company was returned by a Wabash jury in a suit to recover $10,000 for the death of Mary Unger. Her horse backed her buggy on the tracks and the car struck her.

In the case of Jacob Schoeff, who sued the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company for $5,000 for the damage to his automobile, obtained a judgment for but $400 in the Huntington circuit court.

In the case of Frank Drage against F. Nort Whiteside, Judge Yaple found for the plaintiff in the sum of $360. An auto truck sold by Drage was not up to contract, according to claims by Whiteside and he refused to pay for the machine.

William Goodfellow filed suit to have a receiver appointed for Clarence Sick, who keeps a saloon at No. 1030 Calhoun street. Leonard, Rose and Zollars are attorneys.

TOLEDO WON LEADING.

Chicago, March 8.—William Eelwert, of Toledo, Ohio, went into first place in the individuals of the American bowling congress tournament this afternoon when he hung up a score of 604. Christie Thies, of Cleveland, took second place with 659.

WOMEN WILL JOIN LEAGUE.

Mass Meeting to Be Held in Lafayette by Franchise Leaguers.

Lafayette, Ind., March 8.—At a meeting last night at which Dr. Adah McMahan presided a number of Lafayette women took up the organization of a Tippecanoe county branch of the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana. It is the intention to hold a large public meeting here next week, at which time a permanent organization will be formed and delegates selected to attend the state meeting of the league in Indianapolis April 3 and 4. Prof. Henrietta Calvin, of Purdue, and Miss Lydia C. Marks are assisting Dr. McMahan in the leadership of the cause here. It is the first equal suffrage movement taken up formally here in a number of years.

ATTACK THE DICTAGRAPH.

Columbus, Ohio, March 8.—The ability of a phonographic device which was used to record conversation between a detective and State Senator L. A. Andrews, now on trial here on the charge of accepting a bribe of $200 was attacked by the attorneys for the defense during Andrew's hearing today. A test of the instrument made Wednesday was only partially satisfactory and the court stenographer who recorded the conversation when the alleged bribery was consummated and took part in the test Wednesday said that a fair test could not be given in open court. The state probably will rest its case today.

STEAMERS FREED FROM ICE.

Racine, Wis., March 8.—The steamers Racine and Iowa were released this morning from the ice off this harbor, where they had been fast since Monday morning. Fifteen hundred pounds of dynamite were used to clear a channel through a 25-foot windrow that was holding the steamers. The tug Langtoise was released last evening.

BUT HE RATHER OVERDID IT

Husband's Bright Idea of Changing the Conversation Left Him in Somewhat of a Fix.

A man who hadn't been home to dinner and who didn't arrive in time for midnight luncheon—if there had been one—finally landed at his apartment and was greeted with a silvery, "Is that you, dear?" from his wife's room.

"It is," he responded succinctly, not caring for much conversation.

"What time is it?"

"Oh, not so late!" he answered; and then observing a large bunch of roses on a table in the hall he sought to change the conversation by remarking: "What a beautiful bouquet of flowers!"

"They are lovely," assented the wife.

"Beautiful!" continued the late arrival enthusiastically. "Fresh, too, I should say. Their perfume is delightful."

"Can you smell them?"

"Oh, yes; their perfume goes through the entire place. It is lovely."

"You always did like the perfume of roses," cooed the wife.

"Yes, and these are especially fragrant."

"Well, go to bed if that is the case. You see, my dear, those are paper roses."

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS.

HARRY WHITE IS GIVEN 6 MONTHS

Also Gets a Fine of $100 Tacked on for Deserting His Wife.

HE MAY APPEAL CASE

At the close of arguments in the city court today in the case of Harry White, charged with wife desertion, Judge Mungovan fined the prisoner $100 and gave him six months in jail. He filed notice of an appeal and has three days in which to perfect it.

In reviewing the case the judge said it was most aggravated. In the first place White ran away with the woman who afterward became his wife and was forced to marry her. He forced her to work as a chambermaid and to do other labor and spent his earnings and her own for drink.

One time he threw her to the floor and took away from her $2 that she had earned. So many cases of wife desertion have been reported and brought into court that the judge has determined to deal severely with cases that are proven.

White laughed as he was being taken back to his cell and evidently thought it a good joke to spend about ten months behind the bars unless he is freed sooner on an appeal.

The Other Cases.

Harry Steinhauer has been for some time purchasing goods on credit and giving them to Tom Riley to sell for less than half their value and the two have been drinking up the proceeds. Both were held on charges of loitering until March 15.

Charles Buckley, plain drunk, was given a chance and a warning.

DEDICATION AT SACRED HEART

The New Additional Building at Institution is Consecrated to Service.

BISHOP OFFICIATES

The new buildings of the Sacred Heart academy, at Academie, north of the city, an addition to the institution that has cost in its erection the sum of $22,000, was dedicated Thursday with interesting and impressive services, the bishop, Rt. Rev. H. J. Alerding, officiating and a large number of visiting priests of the docese being present.

The ceremony of the blessing of the walls and rooms of the new buildings was conducted by the bishop, which was followed by Coran episcopo mass, celebrated by the Rev. James A. Lynn, pastor of St. Vincent's church, and chaplain of Sacred Heart academy. The deacons were the Rev. H. F. Joseph Krull and the Rev. Joseph F. Delaney, of Fort Wayne. The Rev. Edward Mungovan, of Arcola, presided as subdeacon, and the Rev. M. P. Louen, of Besancon, was deacon of honor.

Other officers of the mass were: Acolytes, Rev. Norbert Felden, of Monroeville, and the Rev. James Durham, of Dunkirk; censor, the Rev. John Schmidt, of Remington. Master of ceremonies, the Rev. William C. Miller, of Fort Wayne, and the Rev. J. C. Keller, of Hartford City.

Among the visiting priests present were: Rev. Augusta Adam, of Tipton; Rev. J. R. Quinlan, of Fort Wayne; Rev. Simon M. Yenn, diocesan chancellor; Rev. A. T. LaFontaine, of Fort Wayne; Rev. Charles H. Thiele, of Fort Wayne; Rev. Emanuel J. Wrobel, of Fort Wayne; Rev. A. Hottenroth, of Goshen, and the Rev. T. J. Traverse, of Portland.

Following the mass Bishop Alerding delivered the dedicatory sermon and was honored by the pupils of the academy, who presented the prelate with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers. At the noon-hour a banquet was served in the dining hall of the academy.

The New Wing.

The building dedicated is a new wing which is being added to the old academy building. The structure measures 100x40 feet and is four stories high. The addition was necessary on account of the enlarged enrollment at the academy, which is directed by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. The mother house is located at St. Mary's, Notre Dame, Ind. At present there are about fifty girls enrolled. The new wing aside from study halls contains recreation rooms, a dining hall, music room, studio, class rooms and dormitories. The structure is well under course of completion.

Lectured on Spain.

B. Paul Mossman delivered a highly interesting talk on his travels in Spain last evening at Plymouth church. During Mr. Mossman's trip abroad he devoted a month to Spain, a country the usual European traveler omits altogether. Mr. Mossman saw much that he finds other people like to hear about, especially when related in the easy manner he has of speaking. The talk was illustrated with many stereopticon slides, some of them taken by Mr. Mossman. Miss Edith Nickell sang three songs and was accompanied by Miss Verweire.

SCHWARTZ WOMAN PUT UNDER BOND

Will Go from Hospital to Jail Unless She Can Furnish $500 Bail.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

When Clarissa Schwartz is able to leave St. Joseph's hospital, where she has been several weeks recovering from a wound inflicted by Ralph Fellabaum when he shot her, she will be arrested and held as a witness pending the disposition of the case against her paramour.

In the city court today Fellabaum waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the circuit court under a bond of $5,000. It is probable that application will be made for a reduction of the bond if the woman's condition warrants it and Fellabaum hopes to be able to gain his liberty pending the hearing.

As soon as the Fellabaum case was disposed of in the city court today Deputy Prosecutor Stephen A. Callahan asked that the woman be recognized as a witness and required to give bond for $500.

It is feared that on account of relations existing between the pair for several months that she will endeavor to defeat the prosecution and the state wants to forestall any effort in that direction.

A WOMAN DOCTOR.

Was Quick to Discover What Was Doing the Mischief.

A lady tells of a bad case of coffee poisoning (tea is equally harmful, because it contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee), and tells it in a way so simple and straightforward that literary skill could not improve it.

"I had neuralgic headaches for 12 years," she says, "and have suffered untold agony. When I first began to have them I weighed 140 pounds, but they brought me down to 110.

"I went to many doctors and they gave me only temporary relief. So I suffered on, till one day, a woman doctor advised me to drink Postum. She said I looked like I was coffee poisoned.

"So I began to drink Postum, and gained 15 pounds in the first few weeks and am still gaining, but not so fast as at first. My headaches began to leave me after I had used Postum about two weeks—long enough, I expect, to get the coffee poison out of my system.

"Now that a few months have passed since I began to use Postum, I can gladly say that I never know what a neuralgic headache is like any more, and it was nothing but Postum that relieved me.

"Before I used Postum I never went out alone; I would get bewildered and would not know which way to turn. Now I go alone and my head is as clear as a bell. My brain and nerves are stronger than they have been for years." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason." and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

GRAIN AND HAY DEALERS HERE

Listen to Reports from the Committee on Pure Food Law.

IS AFFECTING GRAIN

A well attended conference of hay and grain dealers from northwestern Ohio, northeastern Indiana and southern Michigan is in session at the Anthony hotel this afternoon to hear the report of T. P. Riddle, of Lima, a member of the committee of fifty which met in Washington on Monday and Tuesday of last week to discuss matters of interest to the trade. Mr. Riddle's report and a discussion thereon occupied the attention of the dealers during the afternoon. A banquet at 6 o'clock will be followed by an evening session at which other topics will be informally discussed.

The conference is being held under the auspices of the Hay and Grain Producers and Shippers' Association of Northwestern Ohio, of which T. W. Dolby, of Delphos, is president and T. P. Riddle, of Lima, is secretary, and was arranged for by a committee consisting of C. G. Egley, of Fort Wayne; J. L. Doering, of Antwerp, and D. W. McMillan, of Van Wert. A conference of the National Association of Grain and Hay Dealers and Producers was held at St. Louis on February 23 and at this conference a committee of fifty was appointed to go to Washington to consult Secretary Wilson regarding the federal pure food law as applying to hay and grain and other farm products. It will be interesting to farmers to know that this committee consisted of the heads of various granges, farmers' co-operative organizations, elevator operators and wholesale and consuming interests and Mr. Riddle was selected to represent the Northwestern Ohio association.

Under the pure food acts and at the suggestion of the secretary of agriculture and Dr. Wiley, there have been confiscations of shipments of hay and grain which were alleged to be under standard. In view of the fact that the last corn crop was of rather doubtful quality there existed considerable anxiety of the right to market the same. Dr. Wiley had served notice that dirty, unsound and damaged grain was subject to confiscation and there was a doubt as to where the line would be drawn. The St. Louis conference adopted a resolution to petition Secretary Wilson to grant a temporary suspension of the enforcement of the rulings as pertaining to hay and grain in their natural state. Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, and Secretary Nagel, of the department of commerce and labor, gave the committee a personal audience and announced that the request would be granted and that the decision would be promulgated by an executive order to that effect.

Secretary Wilson made it quite plain to the committee, however, that the interests of the consumer must be protected and said that the government was already arranging for the installation of a system of federal inspection which would be in effect soon. He added that the petition presented was receiving favorable consideration only so as to afford temporary relief and afford farmers and handlers an opportunity to adjust their business methods to meet the new requirements. In this connection it may be stated that farmers generally, and western farmers especially, are extremely favorable to the plan of federal inspection.

At the evening session a number of topics will be discussed, although no papers will be read and none of the topics have been assigned to any particular member. These topics have been listed by the secretary and will be taken up informally as announced. They include, "How Should a Country Elevator Business Be Conducted?" "The Millers and Elevator Operators," "Do Country Kiln Drying Plants Pay?" "The Future of the Grain Business," "Honor and Equity in Trade" and other questions not least of which will be "Should Fort Wayne Have a Grain Exchange?"

There were about fifty representatives present at the opening session and as many more were expected during the afternoon. Among the prominent out of town dealers in attendance were D. R. Risser, Vaughansville, O.; A. T. Ward, Lima; H. T. Burns, Bluffton; J. Carver Strong, Chicago; H. H. Deam, Bluffton; D. W. McMillan, Van Wert; W. E. Gest, Defiance; John W. Luscombe, Toledo, and a number of others equally prominent.

SEEK TO TURN DRIFT TO SOUTH

Wabash and Pennsylvania Turn Attention to New Situation.

IN WHOLESALE TRADE

The Becker Paper company, one of the pioneers in the wholesale paper trade in northern Indiana, and which for many years has been located on East Columbia street is compelled by increasing business to seek more commodious quarters. For more than a decade the Becker company has occupied the premises owned by the Frank J. Gruber estate, a four-story building on Columbia street, between Calhoun and Clinton and abutting on the Nickel Plate right of way with a freight track conveniently running by the back door, offering a decided advantage for shipping and unloading freight. Since the first of the year the company has placed three additional salesmen on the road and now finds its storage and shipping facilities inadequate and is therefore forced to seek new quarters. It has several localities under consideration among which one along the Wabash right of way presents very desirable features.

In the selection of a new site, probable co-operation by the Wabash company may cut a considerable figure. The trend of wholesale business away from the south trunk lines has recently forced itself upon the Wabash and Pennsylvania lines and they are inclined to offer inducements to large concerns to locate along their tracks. The removal of the Bursley concern, which is one of the heaviest shippers in the city, from a central location to one directly on the Nickel Plate tracks has effected a considerable diminution in freight receipts at both the Wabash and Pennsylvania offices, and this with the comparatively recent removals of the Perfect grocery concern, Fisher Bros. paper house and several others from central points to specifically Nickel Plate territory have given that company a great advantage which the other roads are not slow to realize and it is becoming quite evident that they will exert themselves considerably to prevent a further divergence of wholesale business from their territory and will offer such inducements as they can to impel wholesalers to locate along their rights of way and will doubtless make the inducements sufficiently alluring to demand consideration from a commercial point of view.

The Becker Paper company has not yet made any other than tentative plans for the future but Manager Danehy said to the Sentinel today that a year from now would unquestionably see his concern in new quarters, that a modern building of probably eight or ten stories would be required and that a location west of Calhoun street along the Wabash right of way is one of the most likely probabilities.

SURNAMES WERE COMING FAST.

Muncie Woman Possessed Three of 'Em in Space of 28 Minutes.

Muncie, Ind., March 8.—In the brief space of twenty-eight minutes Mrs. Lottie Osterhoff, a young woman, was the possessor of three different surnames. She entered the superior court room as Mrs. Wm. Stephens. Judge Van Atta gave her a divorce from Stephens and restored her maiden name, all in ten minutes. She left the court room as Miss Lottie Hardman. In the corridor there was waiting for her Everett D. Osterhoff and the two went to the county clerk's office on the floor below, where they obtained a marriage license. That required ten minutes more. Eight minutes passed in getting a justice of the peace and in marrying.

Individuality in Advertising

Unusual interest is being shown just now in the advertising contest conducted by the Wildwood Builders.

The prizes aggregating Fifty Dollars in gold are displayed in the window of the Bruder Jewelry Company, together with a water color of one of the Wildwood Bungalows.

This water color, attractive in itself, forms an especially good background for the gold pieces, to be awarded as prizes to the contestants.

With the wave of Civic Development that is sweeping the country, has come an advertising spirit which means the development of a new art; and it is indicative of the steady progress of Fort Wayne that it has taken up both the Civic Beauty, and that its advertising methods are keeping pace with the time.

With the paving and lighting of our streets, the platting of logical homes, our people are demanding a better type and the higher class Building Companies cater to that increased good taste.

The Wildwood Builders have come into active prominence by reason of their substantial standing, good taste and fair dealing. The individuality of their newspaper advertising during the past year has attracted much attention, and the present contest by which the Company seeks to ascertain the wants of the people, is but a further step along the lines of modern advertising.

The Round-Up

At the Majestic Soon.

Klaw & Erlanger's massive production of "The Round-Up," which created such a sensational success in New York and Chicago, will be presented for the first time in this city at the Majestic Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16.

This powerful spectacular melodrama of life in southwestern Arizona during the period when General Crook was chasing Conchise, the famous Apache marauder, and his band of truant Redskins back to their reservation, has made a most remarkable appeal to theatergoers. It touches with a singular force the romantic spirit inherent in everyone. Its story is true to the heart and nature. Its characters are striking, well drawn and cleverly contrasted and the entire performance teems with fascinating dash and spirit from start to finish. It is so real and the personalities that tell the story, its Indians, cowboys, scouts and cavalrymen, its bucking broncbos, and its thrilling battle spectacle, that one is translated to the locale of the scene, and for the time becomes a participant in these stirring events in the great southwest. The scene of witnessing stage mimicry seems entirely lost in the auditor of "The Round-Up." This is the secret of the really marvelous success of the play. "The Round-Up" is a play with all the bigness of all out-doors. So adroitly is it handled that it is about as untheatric as a dramatic production can be. With its stirring scenes before him, the spectator loses sight of the facct that he is inside the four walls of a theater. The great Far West is magically transferred to city doors and the blood is set tingling with all one sees and hears. The plains, mountains and canyons have an irresistible fascination for every one, but there are very few with time enough to enjoy their wonders and delights. In "The Round-Up," the bracing, vigorous atmosphere of life in the open is preserved with startling fidelity and truth. The dramatic incident of twenty mounted Indians riding along a ledge on a cliff in the third act and the marvelously realistic battle scene add an element of realism to the play which has rarely been equalled on the American stage. The cast includes Rapley Holmes, Harold Hartsell, William Conklin, Mitchell Harris, Harry Cowan, W. H. Sullivan, M. E. Heisey, Frank Vail, James Asburn, Jacques Martin, W. N. Bailey, Edward Settle, Charles Aldridge, "Texas" Cooper, Gerda Henius, Inez Macauley and Mattie Edwards. There will be an auxiliary organization of 150 people including soldiers, scouts, "cowpunchers," Mexican vaqueros, Arizona girls, Apache Indians and twenty horses

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion; a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended forever. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too. adv

BEVERIDGE IN THE FIGHT.

Former Senator Beveridge will sound the trumpet for opening the campaign in behalf of Roosevelt in Indiana. At a meeting in Indianapolis next Wednesday night the ex-senator will declare himself for the anti-Taft candidate, and that he will do so with vast pleasure needs not the testimony of our word to establish. President Taft never was an ardent admirer of the Indiana senator, and when differences arose over the distribution of patronage in this state the president had his way in some important matters. Upon one appointment for postmaster Senator Beveridge staked his relations with the president, announcing that he would take it as a personal affront if the president went contrary to his recommendations and desires. Mr. Taft did that precisely as he had been forbidden to do it. At that time it was known that Senator Beveridge would retire to private life and the president may have fancied himself perpetually secure from the wrath of the eloquent and waspish Hoosier statesman. Now behold what one short year may bring forth. Mr. Taft is in a bad way, and Mr. Beveridge, with great diligence and unction, is lending a hand to put him in a worse. If the Indiana delegation to Chicago can be split, Albert Jeremiah Beveridge will leave no stone, large or small, unturned to compass that. We opine, however, that he is not expecting to accomplish much in that direction in the home district, for out of the Roosevelt press bureau comes a welkin-splitting wail that the federal machinery at Indianapolis is applying great power and a deal of pernicious activity to a ruthless suppression of the popular vote. But there are other districts in the state where federal patronage is not the whole political situation and the ex-senator can find a broad field for his activities. As an old friend of The Colonel and as no friend at all of The Colonel's successor, he may be expected to do what a good man may find to do, notwithstanding a few months ago he announced himself too busy with literary work to take any part in politics at all this year.

PUBLIC IS AN OFFENDER.

The efforts of half a dozen or so big industrial concerns will not abolish the smoke nuisance in Fort Wayne. Here and there a little runt of a chimney can make a factory stack look like an expiring cigarette. To abolish the smoke evil there must be general co-operation—effort by domestic consumers and public places as well as by industrial concerns to produce the minimum of smoke. In this connection it is interesting to recall that heretofore attention has been directed to the smoke-producing capacity of the chimneys on the public school buildings. The public institutions ought to be the first to set such an example as is possible in better things. Much smoke from public chimneys means much waste of public fuel and public money. Moreover, a public institution has no right at all to become a nuisance. The school board can render great aid to the smoke crusade by seeking the co-operation of its furnace firemen in the movement to abate the evil. The city, at its several smoke-producing plants, and the county, at the power building, should make an effort to abate that part of the smoke nuisance which is due to them. The effort to prevent smoke will result in vast improvement without resort to any other means than more care in firing.

They quit kickin' that houn' dawg aroun' long enough in Washington to give Champ Clark a mighty fine acknowledgement of his sixty-second birthday. Everybody—democrats and republicans—had something nice to say of the speaker, and he deserved it all—a fact it is to be hoped his republican friends will not be at all slow to remember in case he should be the pick of the Baltimore convention. The Missouri statesman is not only a big man, but he is the right kind of a "good fellow"—clean, honorable, courageous and full-hearted. The good wishes bestowed upon him were all sincere. Friendship could hardly be hypocritical with Champ Clark.

The police authorities at Lawrence, Mass., do not seem to be able to assign any good reasons for their interference with the deportation of the small children of mill strikers in that place. Altogether, it looks as though the interference, effected with a great deal of needless rigor and brutality, was a labor of accommodation for the mill owners. That it was purposed upon any thought that these little ones from homes of want and squalor might fare badly elsewhere needs the support of testimony that so far is not forthcoming. Surely no place could be found where they might be worse off and all the evidence adduced goes to show that they had assurance of comfort and proper care. The inquiry into the big strike is showing up some conditions that had not been suspected by outsiders.

The world is not getting at all excited over the finding of the south pole of Captain Scott and the probable finding of it by Captain Amundsen. It will be remembered—by some, anyway—that long about the first of September two years ago our old friend Doc Cook came out of the icy wilds with a story, and right behind him Cap Peary with another. That was enough for a while.

The Roosevelt men have about four-fifths of Oklahoma bonded to The Colonel. There will be a lot more of that in the west, where The Colonel is supposed to wear only khakai and a six-shooter.

The People Rule in Municipal Ownership of the River Banks.

Editor of The Sentinel: The recent meeting in the court house led by Mr. Brosius and others against the bond issue displayed conspicuously a banner bearing the legend, "Let the People Rule." The advice was excellent; the inference conveyed was misleading.

I was present when the board of directors of the Commercial club adopted the course of civic betterment and city beautification in 1908. The suggestion was made by Mr. Worden, and as the plan grew in the minds of the directors of the club present, it was decided that the entire population should be invited to take part. The motion was made that the movement be made as broad as the city limits. When the organization was about to be perfected it was decided to invite every organized body in the city to take part. The committee invited every trade union, every lodge, or society or other body which could be found in the city directory or otherwise heard of to send a delegate to the meetings. As a consequence there were several hundred organizations with officers and members located in every ward and precinct represented in the movement.

Everybody remembers the civic revival at the Majestic theater, with Charles Zeublin as the lecturer. The audiences packed the theater. The purpose of the lectures and the permanent organization was to "beautify and betterfy" Fort Wayne by the concerted action of all the people.

The movement has therefore from the very first been the people's movement. The whole purpose was to organize so that the people could act for themselves. There has been the constant intention that every act should be first fully discussed and considered by the people. There is no possibility of personal benefit to any active worker in the movement, except what is common to all. Every citizen who opposes the bond issue will share in the benefits of the proposed improvements, if they can be realized, equally with all who favor the improvements. Equality of interest and benefit has been the guiding purpose of the movement. It is entirely probable that the wage-worker, unable to take trips to lake resorts in the summer, will make more use of the river boating and bathing facilities than those who are able to travel during the summer, but the river and its swarded banks will be open to everybody and it will not be the city's fault if some make more use of the improvements than others.

The people have ruled the movement every step of the way thus far. If the law made provisions for a referendum vote, no one active in the movement would object. All would welcome a legal referendum. There is no purpose anywhere by anybody to impose burdens on the people which they are not willing to bear. There is no money to pay the expenses of an election, and it would have no authority that the council must consider or obey. The council could wholly disregard the election, whatever the result. The state itself has provided the machinery under which the council may lawfully proceed, and if they believe in the movement and will consider the honest and persistent effort that has always been made to enlist all parts of the city in the benefits of the movement, they have the right to proceed. They may well take into consideration whether a vote would give them any better reason to act than the impressive evidence that the people have supported the movement every step of the way and will continue to do so. It is clearly to the best interest of everybody that the open sewer running through the city should be restored as a river, and that its banks be made useful to men, women and children, that the councilman who hesitates should have reasons that outweigh and nullify the rights of the people to pure air and healthful surroundings.

The river banks are already in considerable part owned by the city. Is it wise to permit the rest of the banks to remain in private hands, so that if the city later finds it has to donate the banks to the government, when the canal is built, it will have to pay the swollen value to the owner who fought to get the unearned increment which he could foresee? If the canal is designed to take its course through the city, it is entirely probable that the government will compel the city to donate the banks, and it will then be at the mercy of the shrewd speculators who hold the title to the banks. It is reason enough for the city to own all the banks, if for no other purpose than to have them ready for the canal when it is built. The complaint of all port cities is that private interests have gained possession of the banks and have used them to control shipping rates. The people of Fort Wayne will be grateful to any council that buys up all the river banks for the city to have and to hold for the future use and benefit of the city. Considered as a whole,it will be extremely unwise not to buy the banks before the city's marvelous growth and canal prospects double or bi-double their value. Give the people the whiphand in the future control of the river banks. It can only be done by a bond issue, which it is the right of the council to authorize.

It seems strange to see such ardent friends of municipal ownership of all public utilities as those who spoke at the recent court house meeting, fighting the principle of municipal ownership of the river banks in the city limits. The city's ownership of these banks will be real estate, the most substantial of all forms of property; something that cannot be stolen or dissipated by incompetent management. The city's growth insures the continued increase of the value of the property, and it will be most deplorable to find it in the hands of real estate speculators who bought with long distance foresight when the time comes that the city needs the ownership to protect its people against the extortion of private greed.

All who favor municipal ownership of utilities for the common good should be heartily in favor of the bond issue to buy this property before it becomes multiplied in value.

ANOTHER WEATHER SIGN FAILS.

((Kansas City Star.)

Another of the old-time weather traditions has been smashed to smithereens by the unusual winter. That is the tradition that the number of snows that will fall during the winter may be foretold by the day of the month upon which the first snow falls.

An Ottawa, Kan., man who believed that the number of snows could be foretold in that way prepared for eleven snows for the winter, because the first one fell upon the 11th of November.

"This is the twenty-seventh snow that we have had this winter," he wrote to the local papers a few days ago, "and I have just about lost faith in the old sign. But it is the first time I ever knew it to fail."

But if the old-fashioned folks who have had their faith shaken in the old time weather signs this winter will only hold out until Easter their confidence may be restored. Surely if it rains on Easter it will not fail to rain on the seven successive Sundays. Did anybody ever have his faith shaken in that old sign?

GIVES FIGURES ON DEATH RATE

Census Department Says It is Highest Among the Males.

USUALLY THE CASE

Washington, March 8.—Of the 65,412 deaths recorded in the census bureau's area, involving 58.3 per cent. of the population of continental United States for the year 1910, 54.6 per cent., or 439,757, were males, and 45.4 per cent., or 365,655 females. The proportion of male deaths were slightly greater than that shown for the preceding year, which was 54.4 per cent. Of the deaths in 1909 the proportion of females was 45.6. One reason for the excess of deaths of males over females is that for every 100 females born there are 110 males. Also males are more subject to typhoid fever and apoplexy. Typhoid in 1910 was responsible for 3.2 per cent. of the deaths, ranging from thirty to thirty-nine years, most of them males. Between the ages of forty and forty-nine years apoplexy caused 4 per cent. of the deaths, mostly males. Furthermore, many men are engaged in hazardous pursuits.

Of the total number of decedents in 1910 305,674 were single, 276,694 married, 149,846 widowed, 4,380 divorced and 8,818 of unknown or unstated conjugal condition. To eliminate the number of deaths of children below the age of marriage, all of which are included under the term "single," will leave 118,676 as the number of deaths of single persons fifteen years of age and over. The total number of decedents of fifteen years and over, including the single, married, widowed, divorced and those whose marital condition was unknown, was 558,414, of whom 49.5 per cent. were married. If the comparison is restricted to the more advanced periods of life the proportion of married decedents to the total is of course much larger. Of all deaths in 1910 34.4 per cent., or over one-third, were of married persons.

The death rate of infants under two years from diarrhoea and enteritis increased from 87.8 to 100.8 per 100,000 of population. The increase was from 15.5 to 16.6 in deaths at over two years of age. For the registration area as a whole, out of 167,453 deaths of infants under two years 54,266, or 28.9 per cent., were caused by diarrhoea and enteritis. Of the total number, 154,373, under one year of age, 44,695, or 29 per cent., were due to this cause, and of the 33,080 deaths during the second year 9,571, or 28.9 per cent., were from diarrhoea and enteritis.

While in 1910 there were 217,319 deaths of persons under five years of age, there were but 30,216 deaths of persons between the ages of twenty and twenty-four. The greatest number of deaths (60,630) of adults occurred between the ages of sixty-five and sixty-nine.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE.

The simplest aids to beauty are often most effective. I know of no truer beautifier for the complexion than a simple lotion made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Gently rub on face, neck and arms, and you will be delighted with results. It will not rub off like powder, but makes the skin smooth, soft and satinlike. It restores and preserves youthful loveliness of the skin.

Drying the hair makes washing the head a trying task. Dry shampooing leaves the hair clean, light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous. Put a cupful of cornmeal in a fruit jar, add the contents of a small original package of therox and shake well together. Sprinkle a little on the head and brush thoroughly. That is all there is to it, and this treatment wil make the hair grow if anything will.

It is impossible for a woman to look her best when she is suffering from a cold. The best remedy for colds, catarrh, sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, pleurisy, stiff neck, croup, etc., is Mother's Salve. It is easy to use and quick to act.

Some women feel humiliated because of downy growths or wild hairs. These can be easily and almost instantly removed by the application of delatone paste. Mix enough powdered delatone with water to cover the hairy surface; apply and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Henry Ward Beecher, the distinguished clergyman, died in New York this morning.

Senator J. M. Barrett yesterday telegraphed The Sentinel that Governor Gray had signed the bill locating at Fort Wayne the asylum for feeble minded persons. The bill is now a law.

W. P. Chapman has leased the south half of Capt. White's block and will move the Adams and American express offices to this point.

Mr. Ulrich Stotz last night engaged a gang of men to fell the hickory pole in front of his house of call. Mr. Stotz is not "stuck" on campaign poles and the emblem of democracy will no longer wave over his mansion, much to the regret of his patrons, who doted to dwell on the beauties of the campaign as they fell on the genial Ulrich.

E. J. Pennington, who now conducts a manufactory of wood-working machinery at Defiance, was before the Business Men's exchange last night. Mr. P. A. Randall spoke for him and said that if the people of Fort Wayne would subscribe to $20,000 worth of stock in a new company Mr. Pennington would move his factory to Fort Wayne. A. D. Cressler, Mr. Randall, J. C. Peters and others announced their willingness to head a company with a capital stock of $50,000. Messrs. P. A. Randall, E. T. McDonald, J. B. Mouning and John Dreibelbiss were appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions. Frank Alderman presented for signatures a petition to the county commissioners asking them to provide for an election on the question of freeing the roads in the county. It was numerously signed.

J. Geo. Strodel, Capt. C. Hettler, John Reuss, Frank Rahe and C. Schafer comprise a committee to select a site for the new Saengerbund building.

The question of building a sewer on Griffith street comes up tonight at the council meeting.

AT THE LYRIC.

The Lyric is showing "Making Heroes." This is the greatest exhibition fire fighters and fire fighting devices ever produced in pictures. In this picture you see the entire workings of the best fire department in the world, that of Denver. This is an educational picture that is well worth any person's time to see. Thrilling rescues are effected, daring risks assumed, danger and death completely disregarded. There is nothing left to the imagination. Another picture is "Blighted Lives." BOARD IS READY FOR THE BRIDGE

As Soon as Preliminaries Are Finished Commissioners to Act.

A NIGHT OF ROUTINE

The board of county commissioners is ready to act in the matter of building a bridge across St. Mary's river at Barthold street just as soon as plans that were set in motion last night by the board of public works reach the stage where the preparatory work can be completed.

Last night the city board adopted a resolution and approved plans for opening Barthold street from Michaels avenue to the St. Mary's river, for the widening and opening of Barthold street north of the river to Putnam street, opening Putnam street from Calhoun street to Wells, opening Calhoun street from Sixth to Putnam and opening Cass from Sixth to Putnam.

The question of straightening the river at the Guildin play grounds will be decided before any appropriation can be arranged for the building of a bridge. Calhoun and Cass streets will be opened through valuable property belonging to St. Vincent's Orphans' asylum, but the institution is desirous of disposing of it and it will be platted.

The Moellering Construction company got the contract for building a sewer in South Wayne at $1.26 per lineal foot. Anton Rieg bid $1.40.

John and Edward Grosjean secured the contract for walks on Columbia avenue at 83¾ cents per foot for the seven-foot walk from the Nickel Plate tracks to the river and 59¾ cents per foot for the five-foot walks from the river to Crescent avenue. The Brooks Construction company bid .87 and 63 9-10 cents and the Moellering Construction company 88 and 65 cents.

The bid of the Moellering Construction company for the sewer between Hight and St. Clair streets was $1.1d, and the engineer's estimate is $1; the bid was rejected.

Three bids were submitted for a sewer in the alley between Thomas and Holman streets. Anton Reig bid 84 cents per foot and the Moellering Construction company and Fred H. Fuelling bid 82 cents each. Fuelling got the contract.

The estimate furnished by the engineer for a sewer on Indiana avenue was 92 cents and the nearest bid was that of the Moellering Construction company, which bid 95. Anton Rieg bid $1.10. The board has taken the contract under advisement until Monday.

Contractors before the board last night were instructed that a strict system of inspecting sidewalk work will be enforced during the coming season.

An assessment roll for vacating the alley east of Monroe street was confirmed.

A remonstrance against paving Wayne street from Division street to McCulloch street has been filed.

A contract between the city and Hetherington and Berner for the purchase of an asphalt repair plant was signed and the bond submitted by the company was approved.

The Nickel Plate has petitioned to lay an extra track across Harrison street, desiring to do the work before the new brick pavement is laid.

You can say good-bye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.

The Fort Wayne Dairy company yesterday purchased from a Chicago concern a 50-ton refrigeration plant for its establishment at Baker street and Fairfield avenue.

For the Thin and Scrawny

Samose Will Make You Plump and Rosy, Says Meyer Bros. Co.

If you are getting thin you are sick, although you may not know it. If you are losing weight steadily, there is something wrong that needs looking after. If you have always been thin it doesn't follow that you are sick, but you may not be healthy. You cannot be strong if you are thin.

Try then to be healthy and plump, it is not difficult if you know how.

The only way to increase the weight and gain health and flesh is by using Samose, the standard flesh forming food and tissue builder. It mingles with the food you eat and is assimilated so that all the flesh forming and tissue building elements of the food are retained in the system. This explains the great value of Samose.

Weigh yourself before you begin using Samose. It will not cost you a cent unless it increases your weight and restores your health.

Meyer Bros. Co. sells every package on a genuine guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

DOG IS STATE STAMP-LICKER

Kansas Officials Worried Over Illness of Jimmy B. Damm.

JIMMY ON THE JOB

Topeka, Kan., March 8.—Jimmy B. Damm, the most famous dog and one of the most useful animals on the Kansas state payroll, is sick, seriously sick, and may never recover. The state owns many animals, including a cow that produces her weight in butter every year, sheep that produce their weight in wool at two clips a year and hogs that sacrifice their caudal appendices that thousands of other hogs may survive the hog cholera; but Jimmy B. Damm is the handiest of them all.

Jimmy is a real dog—just dog all over. He is a brindle bull, bow-legged, with undershot jaw, ugly face and all the features that make the proud possessor of a brindle bulldog happy. He doesn't get a regular salary from the state, but he gets good things to eat at state expense, because of his work. He is the official stamp licker for the water analysis department.

The state is testing the water supplies of all Kansas towns and seeking new and better sources of water supplies that there may be no danger of epidemics. C. C. Young is the state water analyst and he is the owner of Jimmy B. Damm.

Jimmy appears regularly at the state water office every day just as the clock strikes 8:30 a. m., and he is on duty all the rest of the day, just the same as his master and the clerk and chemists employed in the laboratory. All Jimmy does is to lie around in an unused locker, watching that no one tinkers with the water samples. Jimmy apparently slept much of the time, but let anyone snap his fingers anywhere in the laboratory and Jimmy would be wide-awake and moving swiftly in the direction of the sharp snap. For a snap of the fingers meant that there was work for Jimmy.

Maybe there was a bottle to be labeled or stickers to be pasted or stamps to be put on letters. That was Jimmy's work. At the snap of the fingers Jimmy would trot up to the man who called, stick out his tongue and the chemist or stenographer would rub the stamp or paper label coated with adhesive gum over the rough tongue of the dog and stick the label to the bottle or package or the stamp on the letter. Then Jimmy would go back to his couch.

But the combination of glucose and cow hoofs that go to make up the glue that is put on stamps and stickers appears to have been a very poor diet for a bulldog. Some of the glue must have stuck in Jimmy's throat. He has a big goiter on his neck and lies with his neck swathed in bandages while the state's physician is trying to get him back into shape for active duty. The "vets" and the physician together think they will bring him around all right in time, but the state water analyst needs a stamp licker very badly while Jimmy is ill. Jimmy is not being docked while he is on the sick list. In fact, his salary has been raised and he gets the best dog food obtainable.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Charles R. Dryer, of Terre Haute, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederick B. Shoaff, met a number of old friends this afternoon in a most informal way, at the home of Mrs. Shoaff, who set a particular time in order that her mother would be at home when callers came.

Mrs. W. W. Greenland left today for her home at Roanoke, Va., after a visit with her sons, S. W. and Allen Greenland, of South Fairfield avenue.

Two lovely young women who are to be brides within a few weeks were honored at the prettiest kind of a party this afternoon for which Miss Lucile House was the hostess. Miss Martha Kettler and Miss Ruth Ridenour were the honor guests. White sweetpeas and dainty ferns were the floral decorations of the table and formed corsage bouquets for the guests. A surprise for Miss Kettler came in the way of a photograph of each girl friend present and a group picture of the company taken this afternoon will further bring pleasant memories to her mind after she reaches her new home, which is to be in Japan. Miss Ridenour was given a future bit of usefulness in the way of a recipe book in which is stored the directions her friends follow in concocting various substantial and delectable dishes. Misses Evelyn and Lora Walter assisted in serving the delicious supper that followed the preparation of the gift books. There were fourteen in the company.

Intimate friends of Mrs. Adam La-Mar had an opportunity to bid her good-bye this afternoon at a most informal company of a dozen ladies at the home of Mrs. E. H. Merritt. The amusement was a game of five-hundred and the supper served by the hostess following the card game was greatly enjoyed.

Many friends are interested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Laurel Mariotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mariotte, of Washington boulevard west, and Leonard Stowe House, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. House, of Broadway. Their marriage will take place on the eighteenth of April. Miss Mariotte is admired for her many fine attributes of character and Mr. House, who is associated with his father in the heavy hardware business, is known as a young man of good business ability and is held in high esteem.

Miss Baltes was the guest of Miss Mayme Martin, of Huntington, for several days, but has now returned home.

Miss Jeanette Botteron was five years old on Wednesday and her mother invited six playmates to spend the afternoon with her in honor of the day. Miss Edna Jahn assisted Mrs. Botteron in playing games with the little people and in serving the birthday cake and other good things. The children were Catherine Osborne, Rosalie Arenco, Esther Anderson, Agnes Arenco and Alfred Rondet.

Miss Marie Scroggy, of Lakeside, was given a surprise party last evening by a company of neighboring friends, who, led by Mrs. T. R. Spaulding, invaded the Scroggy home about 8 o'clock. The callers were in sheet and pillowcase masquerade and their arms were filled with pretty gifts and baskets of delicious lunch that was later served for the refreshment of all. The party was given in honor of Miss Scroggy's approaching marriage, which will take place early in April and will be a small home wedding.

One of the prettiest leap year parties of the season was that given by Miss Nettie Brubaker at her home, 3222 Piqua avenue. Progressive games proved enjoyable and caused the time to pass quickly and prizes were won by Miss Emma Kouder, Miss Edith Peters and Henry E. Branning, jr. A delicious box luncheon was served. Those present were Misses Edith Peters, Nettie Jurdan, Grace Bennett, Melia Reese, Lesta Dennis, Louisa Hanselman, Emma Kouder, Olive Brecham, Eula Scott, and Messrs. There were many pretty as well as a number of comical costumes, for the majority of the guests went in masquerade dress. The committee of arrangements served ices and cakes and good music had been provided for the dancing. Prizes were given those who had the cleverest costumes. The committee on arrangements consisted of the president of the society, Mrs. Maurice Meyer; Miss Anna Frank, secretary, and Mrs. Louis Scheffman, chairman of the special committee for the dance, together with Mrs. William Lande, Mrs. Abe Scheffman, Mrs. Harry Salvay and Mrs. Maurice Waterman. The committee wore lavender and white ribbons, the colors of the society.

Concert by Aeolian Company.

A large audience heard a beautiful concert at the Anthony hotel last evening under the auspices of the Aeolian company that was given by a quartet of singers and an aeolian performer from St. Louis. The musicians gave the song cycle by Liza Lehmann entitled, "A Persian Garden." The words are from the celebrated Fitzgerald translation of "The Rubaiyat." The music was very well presented and afforded the audience much pleasure. The singers are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer, Miss Eva Jeffries and Franklin Taylor. Mrs. Spencer was not able to sing and the soprano role was sung by Mrs. Clyde Titus, another member of this company engaged by the Aeolian people to advertise the merits of their player-piano.

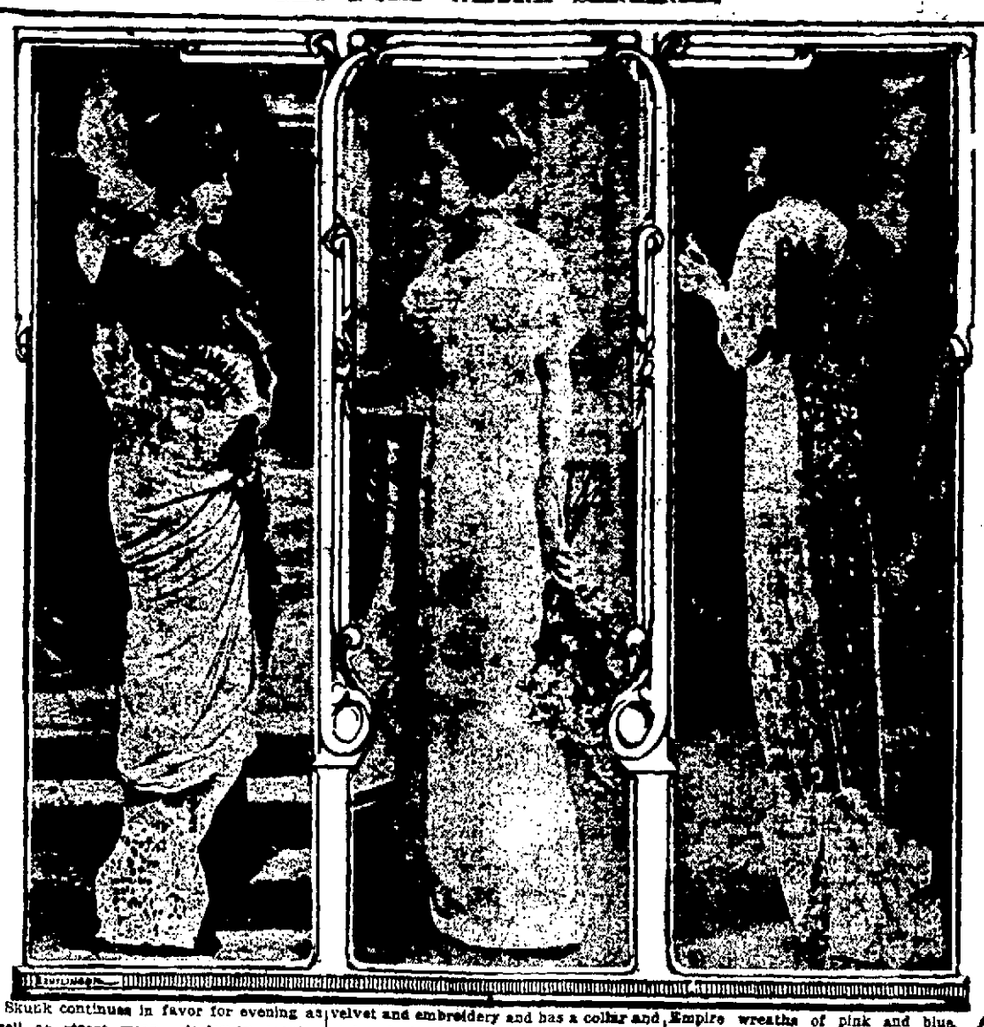
Michael—Kanabel.

Miss Annabel Kanabel and Mr. William H. Michael, of Columbia City, were married on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, by Rev. Dr. A. K. Zartman at the parsonage of Grace Reformed church. The bride and groom will live on a farm located on the Coldwater road.



Skunk continues in favor for evening as well as street wear. A lovely evening wrap of gray panne is relieved with black velvet and embroidery and has a collar and stole of skunk. Simple and dainty is a dinner frock of white chiffon bordered with Empire wreaths of pink and blue. An evening gown of ivory satin veiled with ninon and lace of striking pattern is particularly becoming to a tall, slender figure.

Little Things in Dress That Count for Smartness

Accessories of as Much Importance as the Bigger Items—New Neckwear.

It is not in the nature of femininity to remain complacently satisfied with the fal-lals of the winter now that March is here, despite the fact that during the past few weeks there have been more opportunities than usual of donning the handsome habiliments of cold weather. In one particular, that of neckwear, several enchantingly pretty novelties have been issued.

Ruffles of enormous size are among the fancies of the hour; they are as light and airy as gossamer, although in many cases they are developed in black instead of the white and ecru tints that were formerly the fashion. Truth to say, there is a new liking for black about the throat discoverable in the chemisettes with their tall collars made of the finest black tulle.

There is a positive obsession at present for white sleeves and cuffs, an extravagance perhaps, but a very dainty one. Even the indoor dress has its collar and lapels of white ratine, with turned over cuffs to match. What does it matter if the fragile items soil? They can be replaced easily after being cleaned by one of the magic working processes used in these days of wonderful resources.

The pointed cap, with a whimsical twist in the elfin-like peak, is so becoming that it has led to a new discovery in the shape of reticules. It is a little annoying when one of the contents of a sharply pointed bag "works down" into the point and is difficult of access, but this can be avoided by the lining being made without a point.

After all, it is only the outside appearance that matters, and the practical side of affairs may be regarded when the inner portion of the bag is being constructed. Very smart are a cap and bag to match made of mahogany brown velvet, with gold passementerie trimmings. The peaks of both cap and bag are covered with passementerie, and if tassels are added so much the better, for in this connection they are still very modish.

Then ew flower girdles are simply lovely, but the idea should be materialized soon, for it a likely enough that it will be overdone presently.

After many sad farewells being said to the high waisted toilette back it comes for evening wear, in connection with the classical draperies of which no sane woman ever wearies. To support the draperies of a supple satin toilette of a pearl gray shade what pretties could there be than a girdle of pale pink roses, a bunch of the same flowers drawing the tunic draperies to one side just below the left knee?

It is noticeable that many of the new belts are only half affairs, posed at the back or in front of a frock, or coat. Everything makes for diversion in freaks of this kind, so they are welcome with their more sober and sensible contemporaries.

THE CHILD'S DIET.

Eating Between Meals Is Bad Habit.

No mother should allow her child to get into the habit of eating between meals. This not only ruins the child's appetite for dinner, but spoils his digestion. At four or five years of age he may take a glass of milk and a cracker, if needed, between breakfast and lunch if the mother is quite sure that this does not affect his appetite for dinner. Never urge a child to eat his meals. If he is hungry he will eat what is given him, and if he is not it is better for him not to eat at all until the next meal. On no account should the mother try to tempt his appetite with delicacies. If the child becomes hungry before the next meal do not fix him up a lunch, but let him keep his full appetite for the meal to come.

There is a long list of things not to eat, but a few lines will cover the necessary precautions. The child should eat no fried food, no meat from the pig, veal, liver, heavy stews, duck, goose, sausage or salt meats. He must be denied all hot, fresh bread, muffins and biscuits or cakes, and griddle cakes of all kinds. Also all raw vegetables as well as corn, cabbage, eggplant, and salads raw are tabooed.

Tea and coffee should not be allowed until the child is past fifteen and only soda water and lemonade very occasionally. It is only by caring for the child's diet, by watching to see that his food is cut fine and well chewed, in fact, by protecting the small digestion at a time when the little one knows too little to care for it himself, that health and health's brother, happiness, can be assured for your little one's future.

CLOSE ANOTHER OPTION.

Moose Secure Price on Bleke Farms North of City.

Frank A. Emrick, dictator of the Fort Wayne lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday secured an option on the farms of Fred and Charles Bleke, northeast of the city, comprising a total of 446 acres, as one of the possible sites to be chosen for the industrial school of the Moose. The price fixed on the land was not made public.

Supreme trustees of the order will reach the city late Saturday afternoon to inspect the several sites in prospect in order to be able to make a report to the supreme body.

Wilful Waste and How It May Be Avoided

The High Cost of Living Forces the Housewife to Consider Unnecessary Expenses.

The high cost of living will have one beneficial effect at least if it induces housewives to look after the scraps and prevent waste in all departments of the household.

Women have been prone of late years to regard all domestic duties as disagreeable drudgery, altogether out of the province of any one rich enough to afford the assistance of a housekeeper or a cook-housekeeper; and, in turn, those with a humbler establishment have abandoned a rigid adherence to their duties, and have handed over their obligations to the cook, or even to the little maid of all work, leaving her to struggle as best she may with her own work and the housekeeping thrown in.

It is a common occurrence for a maid of all work—paid, it is true, liberal wages—to do all the work of a ten-room house, wash and iron the odds and ends, including silk blouses; serve 5 o'clock tea, and cook a late dinner as often as the mistress is at home.

In addition, the maid does the housekeeping, orders pretty much what she likes, or, in her judgment, is required; and the only check on her is that her mistress pays the weekly bills, grumbling if they are heavy, but accepting explanations rather than upset a good servant or curtail her own outdoor liberty.

In such a household, childless or not, there must of necessity be "wilful waste," for it is absolutely impossible for a maid of all work to use up scraps or make the best of materials provided when her multitudinous duties are taken into consideration. Besides, why should she? Her wages are paid, waste or no waste. The neglect or ignorance of responsibilities on the part of the mistress is not bad business, and "if she were to worry over every tiny scrap," as she would remind you, "she would never get through her work."

If the mistress finds that she must retrench, either the maid is called to book and departs in a high state of indignation, or the quality of the provisions is altered, the purchases are made in the cheapest market, and waste then reigns with even more appalling supremacy.

The best way out of the trouble is for the housewife to take up the duties she has laid aside of late years—to take an intelligent interest in her kitchen as well as her drawing room.

VARIOUS VERSIONS OF THE BLOUSE

Although the blouse for correct wear should be the same color as the skirt, it need not be necessarily of the same material, even when the lighter fabrics are employed. Ninon and chiffon blouses will be worn a great deal with the taffeta coats and skirts which are to be greatly favored this spring.

It is a pretty idea to line these blouses wth lace linings, which are made in camisole fashion and run with decorative ribbons of contrasting shades. For instance, a blouse of French blue chiffon was pretty lace lined, with pale blue satin ribbon underneath, and another in black over lace made in Vandyck points run with cerise velvet was most effective, a further decoration being a chou of crepe de Chine on the left side.

There is a fancy also for tiny satin ribbon floral sprays as decorative effects to the new blouses. For the most part they will be elaborately trimmed with costly laces and Oriental embroideries.

For morning wear the simple silk shirt with polo collar is becoming very general, and some dainty little lingerie blouses are being made in this style in clear white muslin, with colored pipings and ties in green, pink, mauve or blue.

Some smart blouses are made in suede, especially for motoring; the favorite shades are gray, blue and fawn, with touches of black.

Violet is to play an important part in color schemes for the spring season, and already many pretty combinations of this with other shades are to be seen. An evening gown of pale shell pink is one recently seen and admired. It was veiled with violet chiffon draped and caught back at each side above the hem of the skirt, revealing the front panel of the pink under dress. Pale blue and violet harmonize particularly well.

Spaghetti Rarebit.

Boil a quarter of a pound of spaghetti, rinse and chop fine. Beat two eggs, put in a saucepan with two tablespoonfuls of butter cut in bits, two tablespoonfuls of cream, a little salt, dash of pepper and a half pound of chopped cheese. Stir over a slow fire until the cheese begins to melt. Add the spaghetti and stir until the cheese is entirely melted then serve quickly on thin toasted bread.

Coffee Fruit Cake.

Cream one cupful of butter and beat in gradually one cupful of brown sugar, adding one teaspoonful of allspice, one teaspoonful of nutmeg or mace and two large teaspoonfuls of cinnamon. Dissolve one teaspoonful of baking soda in two tablespoonfuls of warm water, stir into one cupful of New Orleans molasses and add to the creamed mixture. From three cupfuls of sifted pastry flour take a half cupful and sprinkle it over one-quarter of a pound of shredded citron, two pounds of seeded and halved raisins and three-quarters of a pound of currants. Stir the remainder of the flour into the mixture in the bowl, alternating it with one cupful of strong, cold coffee. Beat hard, add one teaspoonful of well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of salt and the fruit. Pour into two pans which have been lined with buttered paper and bake from one to two hours in a moderate oven according to thickness.

Patent leather shoes are successfully cleaned by removing all dirt, then wiping them with a soft cloth dipped in milk. Polish them with a dry cloth. The milk is valuable in preserving and softening the leather.

DEMAND VOTE TO DECIDE IT

Meeting in Sixth Ward Opposes Bond Issue Without It.

OTHER POINTS NEXT

In the same hall where an earlier meeting had adopted resolutions favoring the proposed river bank bond issue of $200,000, a large audience of Sixth ward citizens Thursday evening went on record as unalterably opposed to the bond issue without first submitting the question to the people for decision at the ballot box.

The meeting was held at Emmaus hall, and there was no mistaking the sentiment of the gathering, which insisted that the new park board law is iniquitous in that it confers undue powers, and that no question of this magnitude should be decided otherwise than by an expression of all the people. Sixth ward citizens were urged to demand that their representative in the city council, Councilman E. A. Wagner, vote against the bond issue when the matter reaches the city council.

Mr. McMahon Presided.

Former Councilman Sylvester McMahon presided at the meeting, and the first speaker was Jesse Brosius, who has been one of the active leaders of the opposition to the bond issue. He contended that the bond issue would place the city's indebtedness up to the limit and cripple its ability to take advantage of future possibilities that might be infinitely of more importance than the beautification of the river banks. Mr. Brosius was vociferously applauded when he appealed to the city authorities to "let the people rule," which was the keynote of the meeting. He urged that citizens assert their rights to be heard on the question at the ballot box before this indebtedness is saddled upon the people. He contended that the city should proceed in conservative fashion to pay off its present indebtedness, and that by so doing Fort Wayne might be entirely out of debt in 1920.

Would Go After Wagner.

W. H. LaTourette urged that citizens of the Sixth ward turn their attention to Councilman Wagner, and to "harass, bother and tease, and if necessary, knock him down" if he does not pledge himself to vote against the bond issue. Mr. LaTourette charged some of the men who are promoting the bond issue with having planned river beautification in order to unload some worthless river bottoms on the city, and he assailed the park board law vigorously, asserting that it was "conceived in inquiry and born in Indianapolis." He opposed any law which made any board superior in authority to the city council. He urged that the garbage question is of more vital importance to the people than the improvement of the river banks, and reiterated his former challenge for a joint debate upon the proposition. He declared the proposed bond issue would be an exhibition of bad business methods and urged that the city pay as it goes.

Now Opposes Measure.

Dr. C. M. Goheen, who at an earlier meeting held in the Ninth ward had talked in favor of the Bond issue, declared last night that he had entirely changed his attitude with reference to it, and that he is unalterably opposed to the movement. He offered excuses for his previous attitude, declaring that at that time he had "jumped at conclusions" and had "made a fool of himself."

Dr. Goheen was bitter in his denunciation of the promoters of the bond issue, some of whom he singled out for special verbal castigation. He assailed the employment of three clerks by the park board at a cost of $400 per month, and declared that indications were that it would cost more to prepare for the improvement than to make the improvement itself.

Takes Whack at Park Law.

Ex-Mayor W. J. Hosey also assailed the park board law, opposing the unlimited power it gives to the board of park commissioners. Incidentally he declared his belief that Col. Foster is the "whole park board." Mr. Hosey asserted that Fort Wayne already has many parks and he did not see the necessity for embarkation upon a plan of this magnitude at present, and he opposed the expenditure of vast sums of money upon river bottom land which is worth less than Swinney park.

The speaker insisted that if the river bottom land was worth anything, its owners would have devised some way to get revenue from it. He discussed at length how the city had voted subsidies to railroad companies in order to get them to intersect this city and stated that the roads would have come here even if the companies had not been given large sums of money. "The promoters of the bond issue," he asserted, "are asking the people to sanction, tolerate and permit our fifteen councilmen to bond the city for $200,000. I would not, if I were a councilman, do it for park board purposes. It would be an unwise thing for the council to leave a legacy of debt that will survive long after they die. Why was not the park law made so that it is necessary for the people to vote before money can be appropriated for public improvements?"

At the close of the addresses resolutions identical in tone with those adopted at the court house meeting in opposition to thebond issue were endorsed by the Sixth ward citizens.

Other Meetings Coming.

Opponents of the bond issue will continue their campign in further indignation meetings. One of these will be held this evening at the Olive club hall, 1220 Maumee avenue, and on Monday evening a similar meeting will be held at the Barra barn, on East Superior street.

D. F. Sieling will preside as chairman of the anti-bond issue meeting at the Olive club rooms, 1214 Maumee avenue, this evening, and the speakers will include Mr. Sieling, ex-Mayor Hosey, C. W. Orr, Anselm Fuelber, H. P. Lowry and others.

Most Important Is Our Showing of $25 Tailored Suits

The superiority of our $25.00 Tailored Suits has helped mightily in the establishment and maintenance of leadership in women's clothes.

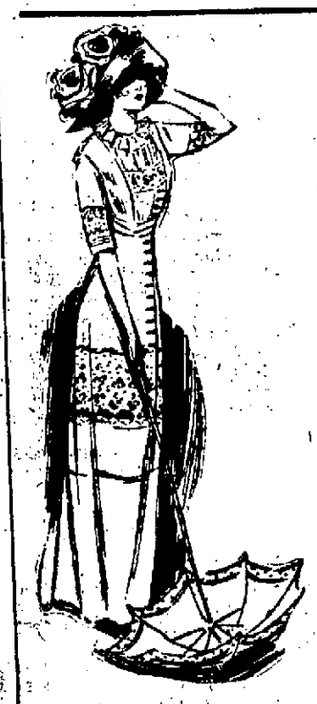
For the spring season we have surpassed all previous efforts in our showing of suits at this popular price.

We have gone into the finest details of suit-making in the selection of this line. Not only do we offer the most complete and largest variety of styles and coloring, having selected all cloths and models for our own exclusive trade, but every tiny detail, down to the matter of hooks and eyes, must be just right, or the entire order is rejected.

The materials are strictly all wool; the linings are pure silk, and the "findings" include pure linen canvas, thoroughly shrunk, and silk thread is used throughout.

We call particular attention to the showing of $25.00 navy and black Tailored Suits. For their making we have selected the finest men's wear serges—the kind used by the best custom tailors. There are also scores of other materials in the $25 display—Suits with permanent shape guaranteed, that necessary feature so seldom found in a moderate-priced garment.

In inviting you to inspect this really remarkable showing of $25 Suits, we do so with the assurance that every Suit is absolutely authentic as to style, and will render perfect satisfaction.



Lovely New Wash Dresses for Summer

"Surely nobody buys those in this weather," said somebody who saw the racks of beautiful frocks on our second floor. Which is precisely where somebody was wrong—scores of women are buying these very things.

Among the most charming of these frocks are those made of the new fabric, "Ratine," a very distant relation of Terry cloth or Turkish toweling. Much prettier than its name suggests, however, for it is delightfully light in weight, with just enough roughness in the weave to render it particularly adaptable to the making of tailored models. These dresses represent the latest word in fashion, with their smartly trim lines and generally fetching air.

Dresses of Ginghams, Chambrays and Linens

"How are they made?" is the first question that arises in a woman's mind whene these dresses are mentioned.

They are triumphs of one-piece simplicity and style is the very least we can say about them. High stock collars on some; others are collarless, with yokes and trimmings of exquisite Irish crochet and the new Masreme laces, which are also sometimes introduced cleverly in the design of the skirt. The linens, in pure white, lovely blue, rose and pink, have touches of hand embroidery in white or self-color.

$5.00 will buy effective little dresses of gingham, and the prices range on up to $25 for hand-embroidered linens and ratines.

WOMEN TAKE NOTICE!

A man cannot understand the torture and suffering many women endure uncomplainingly. If the majority of men suffered as much pain and endured with patience the weakening sicknesses that most women do, they would ask for immediate sympathy and look for a quick cure.

Many women have been saved from a life of misery and suffering by turning to the right remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy which is safe to take because containing no narcotics, alcohol or injurious ingredients. It is an alterative extract of roots, made with pure glycerin, and first given to the public by that famous specialist in the diseases of women—Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. HESSHEIMER.

MRS. LIZZIE M. HESSHEIMER, of Lincoln, Neb., 520 "C" St., says: "I send a testimonial with much pleasure so that some suffering woman may know the true worth of your remedies. I was a great sufferer from female troubles but after taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which a friend advised me to take, I found myself very much improved. After taking three more bottles, and using two boxes of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets, I found myself on the road to recovery. I was in poor health for five years but now I am cured.

"I hope all women suffering from female weakness will give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

ANNUAL MEETING SUNDAY.

Playgrounds Association Will Hold Its Election of Officers.

The Fort Wayne Playgrounds association will hold its annual meeting at the public library Sunday afternoon, and in addition to the election of officers there will come up many maters of importance in connection with the work of playgrounds this season.

Representatives from the Electro-Technic band and the Shop Baseball league, which organizations have been of immense help to the playgrounds movement, will be in atendance, and reports will be submitted.

Anyone or any society that has in any way lent assistance to the playground movement is urged to either attend or have representatives at this meeting.

An Easier Job.

"How about winding the clocks every week?"

Reply Coupons.

The man who boasts that he never writes letters has been prodded into epistolary activity.

"It was a curious little square red stamp inclosed in a letter I received from England that drove me to it," he said. "The stamp was marked three pence. It was totally unlike any stamp or souvenir I had ever seen, and I didn't know what use to make of it. The postman was also nonplussed, and only at the main postoffice was the riddle solved. It was a reply coupon. English stamps would have been no use for mailing a letter in New York, but the coupon could be exchanged for United States stamps. With a reminder like that thrust under one's very nose the most conscienceless letter writer is bound to reply."

DURHAM DEMONSTRATOR RAZOR 35c

This Durham Demonstration is simply a working model of the DURHAM DUPLEX $5.00 SAFETY RAZOR. It is equally as good a shaving instrument as our regular razor. It comes to you ready to shave. In this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post you will find a double-page Durham Duplex ad. with a coupon. Cut out this coupon and bring it to our store with 35c, and we will give you one of the smoothest shaving razors you ever shaved with, or step in and see them. We will furnish the coupon. We want you to try this razor, and we want to sell you the blades later on.

FEW SPECTATORS SAW THE BATTLE

No Accommodations and Half Present Could Not See the Floor.

SAINTS WIN STRUGGLE

Just why a game of as much importance in basketball circles as the struggle last night between the Friars and St. Mary's Athletic club should have been staged at the James H. Smart school building where there were no accommodations for spectators is a little difficult to understand.

This contest practically decided the city championship in favor of the Saints who won seventeen to fifteen and if it had been given at the Odeon or some other public hall there is little doubt that it would have attracted enough money to meet the expenses.

There was a jam in the limited space for patrons at the school gymnasium and only a few who went early and stuck to their places in the first and second rows were able to see the players.

Both teams went into the race all keyed up and neither played up to its standard. Too much attention was given to defensive play and not enough to goal getting, as is shown by the results and emphasized by the fact that only seven field goals were registered during the combat.

The Friar slogan was "get Reed" and the guards kept him so closely covered that he didn't register a shot from the field and Mike Hoffman was just as sacredly kept under guard all the time.

The game was tough and foul after foul was called. There is some ill feeling and neither side is thoroughly satisfied with the result. This may suggest to the club officials of both teams that it would be a good idea to get out in the open and play another game where the public can be accommodated. Then let the referee and umpire be picked from outside the ranks and the outcome will be satisfying.

One objection registered by the Friars against the floor at Odeon hall is that the Saints are accustomed to its slippery floor and would have a decided advantage. Admitting this, it would not be difficult to obtain permission to play at Concordia college.

Plenty of excitement was supplied by the play and as word passed back through the line of spectators to those in the back telling the result, cheers went up from the supporters of which each club had about an equal number.

The Friars have been working at the Smart gymnasium and had an advantage in knowing the floor and in the first period looked like winners as they closed with the score in their favor. The line-up and summary:

St. Mary's (17).		Friars (15).
Reed	F.	Sunday
Hoffman	F.	Meisner
E. Jockel	C.	Sauerteig
Haffner	G.	Rinehart
A. Jockel
Eckrich	G.	Schmidt

Field goals—Sunday 3, Sauerteig 1, Rinehart 1, E. Jockel 2.

Goals on free throws—Reed 2, E. Jockel 2, Sunday 4, Meisner 1.

References—Lauer and Wambsganss.

Scorers—Ellenwood and Getz.

Timekeepers—Tholen and Callahan.

Basketball Notes.

The St. Mary's Athletes tried for a game Sunday with the Wabash A. A., but it fell through because the club wanted too much money to make the trip.

The Fort Wayne High School basketball team will play the high school team at Hartford City tonight and will present the following line-up: Slonecifer and Gerberding, forwards; Keim and Vernon, centers; Ross, Brooks and Carn, guards.

The International Business College team will play the Active Turners this evening at Turners' hall. The management promises a good game, as both teams have been going along nicely for the last few weeks. The Turners expect to pull through with a victory, as they have only been defeated three out of fourteen games this season. The line-up for the Turners will be Weisbecker and Hickman, forwards; Weberuss, center; Barth and Zelt, guards. The game will start at 9:15.

HOLMES TAKES A STAND.

Says He Will Not Stand a Cut in His Salary.

Dayton, O., March 8.—"Ducky" Holmes, who has not yet come to terms with the Grand Rapids management, laughs at some of the stories which have been written about him. "This outlaw talk is all a dream," said the clever receiver, "and I don't know where it started. I think my record with the Grand Rapids club last season was a good one and the fact that I worked in most of the games is pretty good evidence that I was delivering the goods. This season I was asked to stand a cut in my salary and I positively refused to see the matter in that light. I have offered to purchase my release at the same price paid for me by Grand Rapids, but so far I have been unable to make Smith or Annis see the matter in that light. Of one thing I am certain, and that is the Grand Rapids club will pay me the same money they did last season or I will not work in that town."

PLAY AT BENWOOD.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 8.—The Stogies will play all Sunday games at the Slippner ball park in Benwood.

This decision was reached last night after a conference between Manager "Gent" Anderson and E. V. Robinson, owners of the local club, and J. J. Slippner and Luke Garvey, of Benwood.

The present grand stand and bleachers in the Benwood park will be remodeled and additions will be made, and it is stated by Business Manager Robinson that when the improvements have been installed the Benwood park will have a seating capacity of 2,500.

TWO PRESIDENTS FOR THE LEAGUE

Bement and Carson Only Men Who Served in the Position.

ORGANIZERS ALL GONE

In its eight years of struggles the Central league has had only two presidents, which is rather unusual in an organization that has been near the shoals as often as the old Central ship has.

When the league was launched G. Will Bement was made president and he served a couple of terms before he gave up the place on account of failing health. He has since died, but he left behind him a record of devotion to duty that still lives with the patrons who were in on the early fight for existence.

Mr. Bement was a man of means and baseball was his diversion. He carried the league largely out of his own resources in times of disaster and when the burden became too heavy he turned it over to his successor.

Of the original organization Terre Haute, Dayton and Wheeling are the only three towns that have stuck continuously. Marion and Anderson gave up the struggle early, Fort Wayne was out one year on account of the enmity of Isadore Mantner, South Bend's team moved last season and the city was without a team for several weeks and the other cities have all been added.

Dr. Carson was elected president at a meeting in Dayton and served two years before he was elected for a term of five and his term will not expire until next January, when the league agreement will also expire. Of all the team owners who formed the Central at the time of its inception there is none interested at present.

While Dr. Carson was interested at South Bend he was not the accredited representative of the city at the organization of the league. When W. W. Irwin sold out last month the last of the original owners severed his connection with the league. He stuck longer than any of them and Louis D. Smith, of Terre Haute, was next.

Besides Mr. Bement another of the charter members has passed away. Billy Lander, one of the first owners of the Dayton team, who was interested with Johnny Spatz, is dead. Of the cities that have been in the league at various times and have dropped out are Marion and Anderson, Ind.; Peoria, Ill., and Newark, Canton and Springfield, O.

The original Marion franchise went from there to Peoria, to Springfield and is now located in Fort Wayne. The first Fort Wayne franchise went to Canton and from Canton to Zanesville. Springfield holds now the franchise that was given first to Anderson then to Grand Rapids and to Newark and eventually snapped up by its present owner. Grand Rapids has the grant that was made to South Bend and South Bend has the Evansville holdings.

Of the players who started with the league there are two left. They are Manager Aggie Grant at Terre Haute and George Tieman who was bought by the Dayton club when the Newark players were distributed at the Dayton meeting last fall.

DELEGATE AND ALTERNATE FROM BOWLING ASSOCIATION

CARL THIEME.

FRED BERGHOFF.

Carl Thieme, delegate, and Fred Berghoff, alternate, were slated to leave at noon today to represent this city at the election of officers of the American Bowling congress. This will be held tonight at Chicago and it is the first time that Fort Wayne has taken an active part in the election although the city has had a delegate and a right to vote for the last five or six years.

The Fort Wayne delegation has not endorsed either of the candidates for the presidency and the city's vote has not been pledged. An effort has been made to secure it for Wooster Lambert, the young St. Louis millionaire who wants to succeed Robert H. Bryson.

However, Judge Howard, of Chicago, who is also a candidate for the place, will in all probability control the Chicago vote which is big enough to insure his election.

GUY SAMPLE BIG HELP TO DEVORE

Started Him at Meridian and Helped Him Make His Way Up.

HE HAD THE ABILITY

Terre Haute, Ind., March 8.—During Josh Devore's recent visit to this city he told players in a fanning bee that Guy Sample was the fellow who made him what he is. Sample took him along with a bunch of Terre Haute boys in 1906 to Meridian, Miss., where he managed that season, and from the start the Giants' sun fielder made good. As the party boarded the train the "old heads," players who had seen service in the minors, told Devore that they would not need him. It turned out, however, that he was the only one who made good and is now playing in the big leagues.

In the fall of 1907 Sample sold Devore to John J. McGraw. The Scelyville lad went south with the Giants the next spring. He played in the exhibition games and was with the club when it arrived in New York. He didn't get a regular berth, going to Utica, of the New York State league. When Devore arrived at the club house at Utica, he said to the manager:

"I'm the player McGraw sent you." The manager gave one look at Devore and handed him a return ticket to New York. He wired Mc:

"I want a player, not a water boy."

McGraw had another place for Devore, however, and he reported to George Stallings at Jersey City. He made good right off the reel, finishing the season with a batting mark of .298. He was the second best run getter and base stealer.

The Giants recalled him in the fall and in the spring of 1909 he again went south with the bunch. After he had cinched a regular berth he was taken ill with appendicitis which practically kept him out the entire season. He substituted a few games, but he did not get his chance until 1910.

The chance was all he needed. He hit .304, stole 43 bases and fielded with the best. He was one of McGraw's most valuable men. Last season he didn't hit quite as well, but on the whole he proved himself a better ball player. He closed with a .280 average and stole 65 bases. He is now south with the Giants and before leaving declared he would be in the .300 class next season.

Devore's brother Harry, who is with the Giants, will make the old heads travel some to beat him, said Josh, just before the train pulled out. Harry is said to be as fast as a streak and the possessor of a great whip. He can also hit the pill.

DAYTON SELLS RECRUIT.

Dayton, O., March 8.—Manager Knoll of the Vets, completed a deal this morning whereby First Baseman Red Harriott has been sold to the Kearney club of the Nebraska State league. Red was treated pretty well by the Vets while they held a string to his services, but when he balked on signing up this season it was decided to cut loose from him. Beckewitz now has the first base job all to himself as Red was his only rival.

GOT TO FAT TO RIDE THE PONIES

Indianapolis, Ind., March 8.—Charley O'Day, who makes his debut in the Central league this year as manager of the team with which he won the Ohio State league championship, last year, began playing baseball about twelve years ago because he got too fat to follow the occupation he had taken up early in life. That statement about O'Day is literally true. In his youthful days O'Day was a race horse jockey. His days as a jockey ended in Florida. O'Day was riding a horse named Gold Dollar in a steeple chase at a track, near what is now Moncrief track, and the horse fell. Both of O'Day's collar bones were broken and he was in a hospital about two months. When he mounted Gold Dollar O'Day weighed 128 pounds. When he got out of the hospital both his collar bones were sound, but he weighed 156 pounds. O'Day was too big to ride even in steeplechases after that, and he turned to baseball as the next best thing. He joined a Chicago semi-pro team, managed a team in the Wisconsin State league, played in the Three-I league and then went to Newark as manager of the Newark team. When President Watkins established a club at Springfield last year O'Day was sent to Springfield to manage that team and he won the pennant.

BOOST FOR BERT ANNIS

(Grand Rapids Press.)

Stung so many times by irresponsible promoters that they almost lost faith in promises made by an owner of a Grand Rapids Central league team local fans have half doubted all winter that there would be a new downtown park here this year, even when assured that work on one started last fall. They are "from Missouri" and are hardly to be blamed in the light of past experiences. To "show them" in the most substantial form Owner Annis is here contracting for the lumber and hardware for the new park next to the city market.

Too much credit cannot be given the South Bend man for his faith in the city's appreciation of a good baseball team with a park favorably located. He is asking nothing that he is not willing to pay for and when the season opens only asks for the patronage of those who feel that the attractions he has to offer are worthy of it.

ZANESVILLE MUST PAY.

Player Herold Must Be Rewarded or Released.

Cincinnati, O., March 8.—The national baseball commission has reversed the decision handed down by the national association of baseball leagues regarding the claim of Player Joseph Herold, of the Zanesville, O., club. He had claimed salary amounting to $103.50 to be due him from Zanesville, who had claimed him under an optional agreement after selling him to the Piqua, O., club. The association ruled that the Piqua club, now disbanded, must be held for the money. The commission thought otherwise, and Zanesville must pay the money or declare the player a free agent.

UMPIRE PLAN IS DENIED.

President Carson Has Made No Arrangements to Instruct Arbiters.

South Bend, Ind., March 8.—Central league writers are pronouncing President Carson's supposed announcement of a general meeting of his umpires a week before the opening of the season to give them their instructions for the season an agreeable one. When asked if he contemplated issuing an order to all his indicator men to report at headquarters before the season opened, Dr. Carson said he had made no such arrangements.

KELLEY DUE IN ZANESVILLE.

Will Take Charge There After a Trip to Hot Springs.

Zanesville, O., March 8.—With the arrival of Manager Kelley Saturday or Sunday, local baseball interest will begin to bubble, and some kind of an opinion can be formed as to the players, who will make the team this season.

Manager Kelley is at present at Hot Springs, Ark., with his brother, Mike Kelley, manager of the St. Paul club of the American association. He is busily engaged in looking over a lot of youngsters of the St. Paul club, and will in all probabilities land several good men for the local team.

ASKS FOR FINAL STATEMENT.

Cy Alberts Writes to the Management at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 8.—That Fred Alberts is thinking more of his contract than he is of firing a locomotive is shown by a letter to the management in which he asks a final statement of what will be done in his case. The management says the contract was its last word and that he can accept or reject it, and thus far no answer has been sent to him.

PARKER DID NOT CATCH THE JOKE

Ex-Grappler and Would-Be Boxer Backed Down and Out from Wrestler.

MONROE WAS FOOLING

Before Jack Monroe quit his near-listic affairs, he was a wrestler. Jack did not shine on the mat, but he usually managed to ring in a good bluff.

This was in the days when "Little Demon" Harvey Parker was helping make history—and no matter what else might be said of Harvey, he was game.

Leastwise, he showed Jack Monroe how to take a joke, says a veteran mat follower who narrates the following incident:

They had met in a little town in New England, and it was all Parker, with Monroe trailing up a bad second. Harvey was far lighter than his adversary, but he knew the wiles and ways of the quilted arena.

It sort of got onto Jack's nerves to be hooted, and as the men had only one dressing room, Jack lost no time in delivering his opinion of Parker to that gentleman himself.

It was at this time that Monroe was scheduled to meet Jeffries out in Frisco, and Jack was anxious to build up every ounce of fighting strength he possessed.

"Say, Parker," he ventured, as they took their rub downs, "I've a cussed good notion to beat you up for making a boob of me before that crowd. And what's more, Harvey, I can get by with it, too."

"Oh, you can, can you?" Harvey retorted, as he moved over toward the door. Apparently, Jack thought he had the Demon on the run—and he started in Parker's direction.

But instead of running, Harvey simply turned the key in the lock—and then tossed the key into a corner.

"Now, Jack," he said in quiet tones, "you're going to have your change. We are stripped for action. Anything goes. Only—hit me right and put me away with that first punch. I expect you to land once. If it's good, you win. We'll have it over before they can break down the door. And, further, Jack, I can see where you don't get the loser's end of that fight purse out Frisco way. If I can—and I am confident—I am going to break one of your fins."

Monroe hesitated. He hadn't thought of that phase before. He wasn't so sure that he was playing a safe bet.

"Come on," Harvey urged, as he danced around Monroe.

Jack scratched his head. Suppose Parker should break his arm? That was bad business. Harvey had already treated him to a burst of speed on the mat.

"Well?" Parker asked irritably.

"Aw—let's be friends, Harvey," Monroe replied. "I'll get the key and put it back in the door. On the level, Parker, I never saw a guy who could take a joke worse than you can."

They dressed in silence. Finally Monroe looked up with a grin on his face.

"Say, Harvey," he called, "will you be in my corner at Frisco?"

"Not me!" Parker snapped. "But let me tell you, Jack, I'll do this much for you. I'll be on hand at the morgue to identify you when it's all over."

ERIE WILL HAVE A FEW RECRUITS

Six Men Promised from the Majors and Some New Ones Signed.

FOUR HOLDING OUT

Erie, Pa., March 8.—The first authentic information regarding the candidates who will try for berths in the Sailor crew this year has been given out by President Thomas J. O'Connor. A complete list is not available, although Mr. O'Connor has the names of six major league recruits, now with the big teams on the spring training trips, who will be turned over to the Erie club within two weeks. For various reasons the names of these men will not be made public until that time.

Of the players under reserve last year but two, Nield and Nixon, have signed up. The now famous "holdout quartet"—Blery, Jenkins, Tydeman and O'Leary—were sent letters early this week, requesting them to return their signed contracts by Saturday, the alternative being suspension. The letters contained the information that the state of affairs this year is different than last year and that an increase in salary could not be considered, for the present at least. The holdouts were informed that failure to play square in the matter would result in their names being sent to the executive board of organized baseball clubs, which would bar them from playing with any other clubs.

It is understood that O'Leary has reconsidered and is willing to play for the same salary he received last year. Whether or not the other three have changed their minds will not be known until the time limit stated in the letters is up.

Of the youngsters whom Manager Gilbert has signed are Miller, a New York city semi-pro, who holds down the shortstop position; White, a southpaw, from Wheeling, W. Va.; Matteson, pitcher, with the Meadville Spirellas last year; Schang, catcher, formerly with the Spirellas; McIntyre, catcher, of Union City, and Al Schacht, who, it will be remembered, was given a tryout here last year. Schacht failed to produce the goods, but it was known that he was not in condition. After leaving Erie he pitched for independent teams in New York city and trimmed several league clubs in exhibition games. Schacht has informed Gilbert that he is in first-class shape, and the Sailor chief will give him another trial.

Among the six major league recruits promised to Erie are three pitchers, an infielder and two outfielders.

President O'Connor is angling for a first baseman around whom there is also secrecy. According to Mr. O'Connor, this man played havoc with pitchers last year, batting .368 for the season. Nothing could be learned regarding his fielding ability.

LICENSE FREE IF GIRL "POPS"

Only Wedding Fee a Kiss from Bride as Added Inducement.

WOULD START BOOM

Colorado Springs, March 8.—With a view to promoting connubial bliss as against single blessedness, and also for the purpose of arousing maidens and old maids to the rare opportunity confronting them during leap year, County Clerk E. C. Shelden has publicly offered to furnish, free of charge, a marriage license to any couple willing to swear that the girl or woman, as the case may be, popped the question.

And to reduce marriage to a still more simple and inexpensive process, Justices of the Peace W. H. Gowdy and O. R. Dunnington have announced that they will Sheldenize the wedding ceremony and exact nothing in return for their services but a kiss from the bride. These two justices also go further and philosophize on the duty of maids and maidens to take advantage of the chance offered in the next twelve months to take unto themselves husbands.

"It's like this," said Justice Gowdy. "There's a sort of a silly custom that man should do the proposing and all the woman can do is to say yes or no. That seems unfair. There is no reason on earth why woman should not have as much to do in selecting her mate as does the man.

"Marriage is a business proposition pure and simple. Woman is less influenced by passion than man and therefore her judgment would be better. If the women chose their husbands instead of having to take what comes along I believe there would be fewer divorces."

Says Justice Dunnington: "Woman certainly has a right to propose marriage and I do not see why she should have to wait for leap year. I don't see where it is the least bit unladylike. Most women marry because they want a home. Why shouldn't they find the kind of a man they want and then ask him to marry? Any woman who picks out her husband, proposes marriage and is accepted can get married here free of charge, leap year or any other year."

BRAVE SOLDIER NOW A CONVICT

Col. DeJongh, a Slave to Opium, Was Often a Forger.

PRISONER AT JOLIET

Bloomington, Ill., March 8.—Born of wealthy parents in South Africa and educated at Oxford, William De Jongh, soldier of the Boer war, is a convict in the penitentiary at Joliet on conviction of forgery, his health wrecked by opium.

In court De Jongh waived aside his attorneys and argued and made an hysterical and impassioned appeal for freedom.

"It will mean my death, your honor," he wailed. "I cannot survive another term in prison."

For months, while confined in the county jail, he had planned to secure his freedom. He was confident that he would be given another opportunity to reform. His attorneys advised him to plead guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court. The told him he did not have a chance. The few friends who had remained loyal to him advised him that he had no alternative. The evidence was conclusive.

Still De Jongh hoped and dreamed. He dreamed that he would be given a jail sentence, and he planned to write a book concerning his career while a prisoner. He planned his appeal to the judge and convinced himself that it could not be denied. He carefully rehearsed his plea, and felt confident that no judge could listen to its unmoved. He reviled his attorneys when they warned him that the court did not have the power to impose a jail sentence; that the penalty for his crime must be the penitentiary. Still De Jongh hoped on. He was brought into court, still determined that his dreams of liberty should not be dissipated. His attorneys advised him once more to plead guilty, and the court, Judge Dibell, told him there was no alternative. But he refused to yield.

For two hours, dramatically, and at times eloquently, he argued his case with the attorneys and the court. Finally, seeing that he had lost, he declared that imprisonment meant death.

He was given an indeterminate sentence from one to fourteen years, to be regulated by the parole board upon the reports of his behavior, physical condition, previous record, etc.

De Jongh had chosen the law as his profession, and after completing his course at Oxford he entered the University of Denmark at Copenhagen. When the Boer war came he laid aside his law books and went to South Africa, where he was made a colonel in the Boer army and given command of a famous regiment. His bravery brought him many honors and medals, and he was idolized by his countrymen.

At the close of the war he came to America. On board ship he had been introduced to the opium pipe. He became a slave to the drug, and it was while under its influence that he committed the forgery. Thrice he forged, and each time he was convicted. When released from the penitentiary a year ago he got employment as accountant in the general offices of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway. But he continued the use of the drug and again he committed forgery under its influence. He escaped and remained in hiding for months on a farm south of Bloomington. One day last fall he went to St. Louis. An officer recognized him from a photograph and a printed description and arrested him.

BAD LUCK FOLLOWS HIM.

Scranton, Pa., Man Gets Into Hospital Sixteen Times in Thirty Days.

Scranton, Pa., March 8.—Unless some means are found whereby Max Long, 47 years old, can be kept from turning flip-flops on the icy streets, the officials of the State hospital here will have to press another ambulance into service.

Long has been admitted to the State hospital four times every week for one month. One Monday he was admitted three times to be treated for slight injuries by falls.

"For the love of Mike, are you here again?" exclaimed Dr. Arthur Davis, the house physician, as he saw the ambulance men bringing the limp form of Long up the hospital steps.

"Yep, it's me, doc. I am the original fall guy, I guess," was Long's weak retort.

After several stitches had been taken in a gash on his head and his other bruises fixed up, where he had fallen against the curbstone, he was discharged. The attendants wanted him to remain in the institution for a day or two until he was better able to stand on his feet, but the man was obdurate.

Two hours later there was another hurry call from Spruce street for the ambulance. When the attendants arrived, they found Long again in a faint, suffering from a fall on the icy sidewalk.

"The wicked stand in slippery places," commented Long as he was being carried into the hospital for the sixteenth time in one month.

"His injuries are not serious, but we will keep him here for a few days until the ambulance horse gets a rest," declared Dr. Wilson.

DID SHE CARRY OFF A LIBRARY?

Woman Accused of Beating Rochester City to the Cash.

SHE'S NOW ABROAD

Rochester, N. Y., March 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth A. Holmes, a widow, is alleged to have walked off with money designed for a public library and to be now touring abroad. Supernatural power and ability to communicate with spirits are two of the means alleged to have been used by her.

For many years Morton W. Rundel conducted an art business in Rochester, and, frugal by nature, accumulated a bank account of modest proportions. He was the close friend of the head of a camera manufacturing concern, and on his advice and that of friends he invested his savings in the company's stock. Year after year he put his money in that stock. It became a mania with him, and seemingly he could not save money fast enough to add to his holdings. The stock paid big dividends and in time Rundel possessed a comfortable fortune, though even his most intimate friends were not aware of it.

Without a home of his own, Rundel boarded and roomed with Mrs. Holmes. He was her "star boarder." She gave him all the comforts of home and looked carefully after his interests.

When Rundel died on November 5 last his townsmen were more than surprised to learn that he had left an estate worth anywhere from $500,000 to $1,000,000, and that he had willed all except some comparatively small bequests to a sister, a nephew and a niece, and to the city of Rochester for the purpose of building a public library, to be known as the "Rundel Art Gallery and Library." Mayor Hiram W. Edgerton issued a public statement felicitating the citizens upon it, and indicating where the building should be erected.

Then it was discovered that there wasn't enough left of the Rundel estate, after making the few minor bequests mentioned, to build even the foundation of an art gallery. The money, or between $500,000 and $600,000 of it, had gone to Mrs. Holmes, the woman who had so carefully nursed the rich man in his declining years and made him comfortable in his home. Great blocks of his favorite stock and large sums in cash had been transferred to her. Mrs. Holmes did not deny it; she admitted it through her lawyers, refusing to be seen herself. The old art dealer with ample means, had denied himself the slightest luxury, but the woman soon after his death, ordered a handsome electric runabout.

The city has begun action in court to recover $452,800 from her. Well along in years, Mrs. Holmes is reported to be touring Egypt with her grown daughter. She was a sort of nurse, with plenty of experience of the world, but her character has never been assailed. Eleven actions in all have been instituted by the city, and the executor of the will is co-operating with it to get the money.

It is alleged that for a long time prior to August 10, 1910, Mrs. Holmes, for the purpose of inducing Rundel to transfer cash and stock to her, falsely and fraudulently represented to him that she had power to communicate with spirits and to obtain from them reliable information of a business and medical character, and that she had persuaded him that she had rendered him valuable aid in making investments and had restored his health on divers occasions.

The lawyers for the city say that the woman possessed no medical knowledge and that her pretended services to Rundel in the matter of directing his investments were wholly worthless. They point out that for months before his death Rundel was completely dominated by her, and that she prevented his friends from seeing him, especially alone.

Thirteen transfers of stock and cash are mentioned in the papers, the largest being $145,500 and the smallest $125. It is asked that all of these be set aside and that the woman be compelled to give a strict accounting of all she received from him.

WRECK DERRICK PULLED IN DITCH

Accident Happened When Another Derrick Broke Its Crane Chain.

TWO MEMBERS OF THE CREW INJURED

M. McKeeman Has Neck Scalded; W. J. Robinson Back Hurt.

M. McKeeman, derrick engineer, and W. J. Robinson, signal man with the Pennsylvania derrick from this city, both of Fort Wayne, were painfully though not dangerously hurt at Nevada, Ohio, this morning, when the Fort Wayne derrick was upset and went down into the ditch at the scene of the late freight wreck at Nevada, on the Pennsylvania. Mr. McKeeman had his neck badly scalded and sustained some bruises on the body and limbs. He was carried over with the engine when the accident happened, but managed to climb out of the way of the falling parts. Mr. Robinson sustained a sprained back and bruises on the body, his injuries being less severe than those of Mr. McKeeman.

The accident was due to the breaking of a chain on the Crestline derrick, which is also at Nevada assisting in cleaning up the wreckage. Both derricks had hold of one of the wrecked cars in the ditch, endeavoring to lift it up on the tracks, when the chain on the Crestline derrick broke, throwing the entire weight upon the Fort Wayne derrick. This broke the king bolt of the derrick and allowed the crane and engine to topple over and go down the embankment. The injured men will be brought here and taken to the hospital.

The Fort Wayne derrick was badly damaged and will have to go to the shops for repairs.

TO GO ON PENSION LIST.

Engineer Philip Titus Will Quit the Throttle.

Philip Titus, who has been ailing and incapacitated for nearly a year, has decided to go on the pension list of the Pennsylvania, although he will not be seventy years old until next September. His physical condition is such as to preclude further work in the cab for possibly several weeks or months and Mr. Titus believes it best to retire from active work at once. He is a veteran of the war of the rebellion, having served in the Twenty-fifth Michigan regiment, and he came to Fort Wayne and entered the employ of the Pennsylvania soon after the close of the war, becoming a fireman in 1869 and was promoted to engineer in 1875. He was born in Clinton county, Ohio, September 1, 1842.

ACCIDENT ON G. R. & I.

Ten or Twelve Cars Derailed Near Kalamazoo.

Ten or twelve cars of a freight train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road were derailed near Kalamazoo this morning, blocking the tracks for several hours. Nobody was injured and the damage was not very great, though traffic at that point was blocked, which is considered a serious matter at present, on account of the immense business being handled on the road.

BIG ORDER FOR CLUTCHES.

Auto Axle Company Gets Very Big Contract.

One of the biggest orders placed on the books of the Wayne Auto Axle company this winter came yesterday from one of the largest automobile manufacturing concerns in Michigan. The manager of the Wayne company did not care to give details concerning the business, but he said that a few such orders meant work at the factory for months. This order was for engine clutches.

STATION AGENTS SHIFTED.

WILL GET AHEAD OF CONVENTIONS

Columbia Boys Propose to Settle This Presidential Contest.

TO HOLD THEIR OWN

New York, March 3.—Columbia university expects to steal a march on the republican and democratic conventions to be held in June, if plans now under war materialize. The Politics club of the university is arranging for a mammoth mock convention some time in the spring, probably in April, at which a presidential candidate will be nominated, just as the real candidates will be named at Baltimore and Chicago. The co-operation of the republican, democratic, Woodrow Wilson and Roosevelt clubs of the university has been promised.

There will be two sessions of the convention—one in the afternoon, at which a national platform will be discussed and adopted, and the other in the evening, when the candidate will be chosen. The convention will be held in the gymnasium.

Delegations from every state and territory will be chosen from the undergraduates in as near the proper ratio as possible, and some prominent politician will be asked to preside.

It is not known as yet whether the unit rule or the two-thirds rule will be adopted, but it is probable that the two-thirds rule will prevail.

Brass bands and fife and drum corps and illuminated campaign banners, etc., will be features of the parade which will precede the evening session, the delegates assembling on the library steps and marching with their respective state delegations to the gymnasium.

The convention, upon being called to order by the chair, will first have its platform read. Then will come the naming of "favorite sons." The nominating speeches will be limited to five minutes each and the seconding addresses to three minutes.

When all the candidates have been presented the balloting will start and continue until a candidate has secured the requisite two-thirds vote of those delegates present. Several names have been suggested for presiding officer, but it is believed that Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be requested to occupy the chair.

Four years ago a mock republican national convention was held in the university gymnasium under the auspices of the Politics club, Prof. Charles A. Beard being the moving spirit. Timothy L. Woodruff presided and Governor Charles E. Hughes was nominated on the second ballot. Woodruff, then an opponent of Governor Hughes, was obliged as chairman, to put the motion to make the nomination unanimous, which was done.

Many are chuckling in advance over the possibility of Colonel Roosevelt, should he preside, having to entertain a motion to make Taft's nomination unanimous.

Not the Right Kind.

"I thought you said young Jaggers was a coward? In our automobile accident, we found he was full of grit."

"Humph! I'd like to know where he got it so suddenly."

"I suppose from the ditch we fell into."

VICTIMS OF WABASH WRECK IMPROVING

bridge, near the Illinois state line, on its run for St. Louis. Without a jolt the whole train seemed to heave to one side, and then the coaches rolled, crushed together and piled up alongside the track.

Pinned Down While Dying.

Nearly every passenger in the train was hurt by the rolling over of the cars. Persons in the coaches that were crushed suffered more severe injuries. Two or three were killed instantly, but the others were pinned down by seats or splintered timbers until death came.

Those who were unhurt soon extricated most of the injured from the overturned cars. A few could not be rescued until wrecking derricks arrived.

Along the snowy banks of the railroad fires were kindled to keep the women and children warm. Residents of West Lebanon and Redwood Crossing hurried to the wreck with hot coffee and bandages for the sufferers.

The wreck occurred on a curve on a thirty-foot embankment leading to the bridge. It may be many hours before the wreckage is cleared away and the total number of dead known.

Cut Off Communication.

The train as it plunged down the embankment on the west side of the creek tore out the abutment and left one end of the trestle hanging in the air. The cars struck the line of telegraph poles along the side of the track and broke down five or six, completely shutting off communication by wire with the general offices and stations along the line. The train men were compelled to resort to telephones and it was hours after the accident before any definite information could be obtained. A temporary telegraph office was established at the scene of the wreck as soon as the wrecking crews arrived, but it was after 10 o'clock before the telegraph line was working.

The train, known as the Continental limited, was running one hour and forty minutes late and was running fifty miles an hour. At the trestle over Redwood creek the engine struck a split rail, but passed over safely and took the tender with it. Then with the baggage car leading, the train plunged down a steep embankment. The baggage car encountered a tree.

The front end of the car was caved in and all of the cars behind it were jammed together, but they did not pile up and were not badly broken. Most of the cars in the train were of steel construction and this fact prevented a much greater loss of life.

Fatalities in Day Coach.

The day coach went into the creek in which there was three feet of water. All of the people who were killed were in the day coach.

As soon as Conductor Brandt could reach a telephone an appeal was made to Marshfield, State Line, Danville, West Lebanon, Kingman and Lafayette for physicians and a score or more were on the scene as soon as a special train could be made up at Danville and rushed to the wreck. The injured were placed on this train and were taken to the hospital at Danville.

Wrecking crews from Danville, Lafayette and Peru were hurried to the scene, but no attempt was made to clear the track. Trains were detoured by way of Veedersburg and Attica.

Build Fires in Snow.

The approach of night before the injured were removed from the cars, made the scene more wierd. Most of the relief work was done by lantern or torch light and bonfires were built in the snow near the wreck to give light and warmth to those who were working to relieve the sufferers.

Many of the passengers had thrilling experiences and the accident came so suddenly that some of them do not know how they escaped.

WILL HAVE COMMERCE CLUB.

New Organization Will Benefit Manufacturers and Shippers.

Directors of the Commercial club are giving much encouragement to a plan for the organization of a Commerce club as an auxiliary organization to the Commercial club, and final details will be worked out at a meeting to be held March 28.

The purpose of the new organization is to bring Fort Wayne more prominently before the public as a shipping point, and it will be of material value to the members of the Manufacturers' and Shippers' association.

BREAKING AWAY FROM TRADITION

Dr. Thomas Favors Chair for Woman Suffrage at Bryn Mawr.

AND SOCIALISM, ALSO

Philadelphia, March 8.—Dr. M. Carey Thomas, considered the best educated woman in the United States, believes in chairs of equal suffrage and socialism in Bryn Mawr, the most exclusive woman's college in America.

Dr. Thomas, the president of this college, has long been famed for her radical articles in magazines and scientific periodicals on these and other subjects, and during a talk in her home gave her views on votes for women as concerns college girls to a newspaper representative.

It was in connection with the Emma Carola Woerishoffer endowment fund of $750,000 to Bryn Mawr that the president of the college was seen. While she denied thatthe gift to the institution by the will of this young woman graduate, who was killed in an automobile accident, will be used to promote the studies of equal suffrage and civics, as has been stated at different times, she did say that if it were possible, she would have installed in the school departments for the study of these subjects.

Dr. Thomas believes that young women in our colleges should be allowed to make their own choice of subjects while fitting themselves to face the world, as did Miss Woerishoffer when she was a student at Bryn Mawr.

If the money were available, Dr. Thomas would have departments for all important subjects and, being especially partial to the cause of suffragettes, she would give the girls at Bryn Mawr every opportunity to fit themselves for the cause.

Would Let Girls Choose Studies.

At the same time she would not force subjects of this kind upon the students at Bryn Mawr. Rather would she have them do as Miss Woerishoffer did when she entered the college—choose their own studies and follow them through with proper guidance.

Proper guidance in all important topics of the present day would be impossible without a large amount of money and for that reason Dr. Thomas denounces stories to the effect that the money left by Miss Woerishoffer will be used for building more dormitories and for the establishment of a chair of civics. That would not be carrying out the wishes of the young woman.

What Bryn Mawr needs most, according to Dr. Thomas, is money to extend the educational work in the departments already established, and if other chairs are to be endowed, much more money than is available at present must be given to the school. So for the present there will be no department of suffrage and no chair of socialism.

The trustees have carried out the wishes of the young New York woman who met such an untimely end, as best they could without disturbing the gift itself. That will be left intact and only the interest used to carry on her work at Bryn Mawr so that the Emma Carola Woerishoffer endowment fund will be a lasting memorial to the one who after leaving college did so much for those who were to follow.

A Fine Memorial.

When Miss Woerishoffer went to Bryn Mawr she took up studies that would prepare her for social and municipal research work and for that reason there will be established in the library building on the campus the Emma Carola Woerishoffer memorial room. In this room will be placed her library, made up of books she used while at college and hundreds of volumes on social subjects she collected while following out her chosen career in New York city.

In this room also will be placed books from the library of her mother, which include many first editions on subjects the young woman loved best. Many of these are in the original Spanish and Italian. To make the place seem more intimate, the furniture from Miss Woerishoffer's study in her New York home will be used to furnish the room. It is intended to reproduce as near as possible the room in which she did most of her work after leaving college.

There the girls of Bryn Mawr who are interested in the work that Miss Woerishoffer and many other graduates of the school took upon themselves in uplift movements will have an opportunity to obtain guidance to follow in their footsteps.

Proud of Their Alumnae.

It long has been the boast of Bryn Mawr that many of the women who are "doing things" not only for the betterment of their sex but the world in general are graduates of the college. For this reason Dr. Thomas is doing all in her power to give them the opportunities they need.

Dr. Thomas is perfectly willing to talk for publication, but she has a horror for quotation marks. Asked if it were true that she would have an opportunity to extend the work for equal suffrage and socialism along the lines of her belief as a result of the bequest of $750,000 by Miss Woerishoffer, she said that all these stories were preposterous.

What Will Be Done With the Gift.

To make sure that the public will know what is to become of the money left by Miss Woerishoffer, Dr. Thomas read the resolutions providing for the spending of the money as follows:

"The board of directors has learned with deep regret of the death of Carola Woerishoffer, a graduate of Bryn Mawr college, in the twenty-seventh year of her age, and wishes to place on record its high appreciation of her qualities of mind and heart which made her a strong influence for good among her fellow students of Bryn Mawr college, a power for righteousness in her home in the city and state of New York, and would have made her, had she lived to reach the full development of her wonderful personality, an ideal citizen of our republic.

"During her lifetime Carola Woerishoffer gave abundant proof of her loyalty and devotion to her alma mater by generous expenditure of time and money to improve the material equipment, and broaden the scholarly work of the college. By her noble generosity after her death she stands next to its founder in giving the college power to improve the quality of its teaching and extend its influence for good. Through her great gift the future of the college she loved is assured.

"The board of directors wishes to include in this minute with the expression of its full approval the action of the board of trustees in regard to the legacy of Carola Woerishoffer, to wit:

"'Attention was called to the bequest of Emma Carola Woerishoffer by the third item of her will, which reads as follows: 'I bequeath unto the trustees of Bryn Mawr college, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of Pennsylvania, the sum of seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars.'

"'On consideration of the above it was on motion unanimously decided that the principle sum when received be set aside as a permanent endowment, to be known as the Emma Carola Woerishoffer endowment fund, and the income thereof only to be spent for such collegiate purposes as this body, or its board of directors, may from time to time direct.'

Honoring a Name.

"The board of directors directs that in order further to perpetuate her life as a student and her public work after graduating from Bryn Mawr college, a room in the college library shall be set aside for the use of the students in her chosen field of work, economics and social service, equipped with books on these subjects, and named the Emma Carola Woerishoffer Memorial room, and that the offer of Mrs. Woerishoffer to furnish this room with the furniture of the study used by Carola in her New York home, be gratefully accepted, and that a special bronze tablet be placed in the cloister of the library, commemorating her gifts to the college and the achievement of her brief life of public service, in order that her name may forever be honored by Bryn Mawr college."

That is the whole story of the Woerishoffer gift, declared Dr. Thomas, and it repudiates all other stories of other uses for the money.

SANDERS IS NEW LODGE SECRETARY

Succeeds to Place Long Held by Late D. L. Harding.

MEMORIALS ADOPTED

Wayne lodge, No. 25, the oldest Masonic organization in Fort Wayne, on Thursday night elected Loren P. Sanders as secretary, filling the place made vacant by the death of the late D. L. Harding, who had been secretary for many years.

The lodge also adopted memorials in tribute to Mr. Harding and to W. J. Probasco, two prominent members who have passed away. They were as follows:

Daniel L. Harding.

Our dear friend and brother, Daniel L. Harding, has gone to his Supreme Master, our living God, to answer the last call and receive the reward of everlasting life promised to those who keep His commandments.

Brother Harding was born in Kings county, Ireland, January 8, 1843, and died at Fort Wayne, Ind., February 11, 1912.

He was made a mason by Tullamore lodge, Ireland, in 1864, and united with Wayne lodge, No. 25, April 23, 1872.

Almost with his first affiliation with us he became an interested and faithful worker in our noble cause, and seldom missed a meeting.

He was appointed steward December 10, 1872, elected junior warden December 2, 1873, worshipful master December 22, 1874, and again December 18, 1877. He was elected secretary December 7, 1886, serving continuously until death.

He was a just and watchful master, an efficient and accommodating secretary. He lived a true Mason, practicing the tenants of our profession in his every-day life. He was a loving husband, a kind father and a good citizen.

We desire to extend to his bereaved family and friends our sincere sympathy, and we commend them to our Heavenly Father, who alone can give them needed consolation and peace of mind in time of sorrow.

We recommend that these expressions of respect, love and symouthy be spread upon the records of our lodge and that a copy be sent to the widow of our deceased brother.

William J. Probasco.

Again we are called to mourn the loss of a dear brother. On the 5th day of March, 1912, William J. Probasco answered the summons of the Great Master, and on the 7th all that was mortal of this man, whom all who knew him loved, and all good Masons cherished as a brother, was laid away in his last rest.

Will Probasco was endowed with a kind, gentle and mild and loyal nature. He was not demonstrative and aggressive in his life, nor in his friendship. He was singularly devoted to his duty, and held always a high opinion of what his calling and his duties were. No one ever questioned Will Probasco's honor, and no one ever doubted that he would do all the duties that life imposed upon him, so far as he was able.

Recognizing the power of Masonry over men, and its influence for good in molding character, he, twenty-one years ago, on April 11, 1891, became a Master Mason. He was so consistent in his attendance at the meetings of the lodge that on December 3, 1892, he was elected junior warden, and on December 3, 1895, he was chosen senior warden, and on December 28, 1895, he was again chosen senior warden.

He filled these places with singular distinction, and was always at his post. His many outside duties kept him from accepting other responsible places in the lodge, but he was always faithful to the lodge and always devoted to the cause of Masonry.

He was a good Mason, and being such, he was a good man, and he exemplified throughout his life the teachings of Masonry.

His taking off is a loss to Masonry, a loss to the world and a loss to his family.

We extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and while we know that words seem empty things at such a time, when the head of the household is taken away, it is the best we, as mortals, can do. Consolation greater than earthly friends can give must come from the Great Father of all.

We recommend that these expressions of respect, love and sympathy be spread upon the records of our lodge and that a copy be sent to the widow of our deceased brother.

In spite of being numbered the "unlucky thirteen" the Sunday school class of Mrs. Henry Mayer of the German Reformed church is a lucky one, as is evidenced from the enthusiastic meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lewis Gerig. The class has a "free will offering" box in which sums are placed by them, and this was opened yesterday and found to have the good sum of $10.50, the offering made since last November. This will be contributed to the new carpet fund of the church. The members of the class also called on Mrs. William Fansler, one of their good ladies, who, with her husband and son, will leave this week for their rnew home in Fort Wayne. The class presented her with a beautiful dish as a token of their good will and esteem.

Erwin the contract for the remodeling of the church was let to Daniel I. Weikle, of this city. The improvements to be made will be quite extensive, including the church to be raised, a new foundation placed thereunder. A steam heat furnace will also be installed. The interior work will include the frescoing of the walls, repairing of woodwork and otherwise improved to place it in the best condition possible.

The recent heavy snows proved to be quite an extra loss to Adams county, the commissioners having to engage extra labor to the number of 250 men. The gravel roads were impassable for several days and not until the heavy banks were shoveled aside could the public continue their travels. More than $500 was incurred in this way, as was shown in the reports made by the various commissioners in session here on Tuesday.

The local lodge of Ben-Hurs enjoyed one of the most pleasant times Wednesday evening when thirty-five new members were taken into the organization. Fort Wayne arrived here at 8 o'clock with a large dellegation in response to an invitation to confer the degree work, which was successfully carried out.

Mrs. Louisa Lachot King, of Wells county, a sister of ex-County Treasurer John F. WRECKS FAMOUS STUCCO.

Egyptian Art Work Is Ruined at Cairo.

Cairo, March 6.—News has been received here of the wanton destruction of the famous painted stucco pavement at Tell-el-Amarna. The pavement was discovered by Professor Flinders Petrie in 1891 while excavating on the site of the city of Ekhaton, which was built in 1300, B. C., by King Akhenaton as his new capital in place of Thebes when he abandoned the worship of the ancient gods for that of the sun.

It is believed that the deed, which implies the loss of a valuable monument in the history of Egyptian art, was perpetrated by a discharged watchman. It is feared that the damage is irreparable, but since the act in the eyes of the law is merely a misdemeanor punishment amounting to only a few weeks' imprisonment can be meted out to the delinquents in such cases.

MR. BROWN IS CHIEF BOOSTER

Calls Coming San Francisco Exposition Biggest Show on Earth.

TAKES TRIP ABROAD

New York, March 8.—Frank L. Brown, who is to be the chief official boomer of the international exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal, sailed with his wife on the Lusitania last week to wake up Europe on the subject of the big show.

"I'm just running over to London and Paris to start the interest and lay the foundation," said Colonel Brown. "Oh, no; I'm not going to invite any nations to send exhibits. Not now; it's too early for that. This is just a preliminary excursion; just a before-dinner cocktail. We couldn't do what we're doing now until the president had issued his official invitations to the exposition, which he has just done, sending them broadcast among the nations.

"We will let the whole world know that we have raised the money and that we will swing the Golden Gate on its hinges both ways. For the first time the west has been united.

"History shows that the great trend of population has always been toward the west until it rolls up and thickens and solidifies in masses upon the extreme coast, and then population perforce spreads itself back eastward. And so (may I prophesy it in New York?) San Francisco will become the metropolis of the world."

"And lose at the same time all its freshness, its naturalness and its unartificiality," interjected Mrs. Brown. "New York is all artificial. San Francisco is natural, unaffected, unartificial. Artificiality is the fate of big cities. Better might San Francisco remain as she is."

"Let us be boomers, not knockers," the colonel gently suggested, and then barked back:

"We are going to have the greatest foreign exhibit ever. The whole world knows that the trade of the Pacific will be great in the future. The kaiser shows that he realizes it in his organization of his consular service. He is today the greatest salesman in the world. German and British steamship lines have already planned to rush the Panama canal from the start, and already the California Trade Development board has opened headquarters in Berlin. And that board is working in harmony with us for the exposition.

"We have planned to have all the battleships and cruisers of the world assemble in Hampton Roads and from there steam down to the isthmus and through the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast to San Francisco preliminary to opening of the exposition. The exposition will open January 1 or March 1, 1915, and continue to January 1, 1916. The battleship Oregon, built at the Union Iron Works at San Francisco, and the first battleship to steam from one ocean to the other, passing through the Straits of Magellan, will be invited to lead the procession.

"Upon the arrival of this great naval flotilla there will be a pageant of all the Central and South American nations. Following this will be the greatest automobile races ever known. Then will come the Olympic games and next the airships. Then will come the pageants of the oriental nations, the first ever organized.

"Market street and Van Ness avenue in San Francisco will be decorated for each of these events, making their commencement at the ferry at the foot of Market street and continuing to Fort Mason and the Presidio, the government military post.

"We have asked for this exposition no aid from the government. It is the first time in the history of expositions that such aid has not been sought. California is going to do it all. She has already subscribed over $20,000,000 for the general purposes of the exposition. $18,000,000 more for good roads and $9,000,000 more for new wharves and piers—$47,000,000 in all. In addition to all this we will vote more millions for a new city hall, an auditorium, a new opera house and other civic and semi-public buildings to make a good front to the nations that accept our hospitality."

The publicity department wants a few boost epigrams to send flying through the earth—something like these:

"Come and Lift the Latch of the Golden Gate, Which Swings on the Hinges of Hospitality."

"California Invites the World to the Exposition City, San Francisco, 1915."

"I suppose," the colonel said, "the committee will pay tribute to the men who can create new thoughts and ideas for advertising the fair. We have already offered $1,000 for the best picture postals."

G. R. Hance, a Bowser salesman in the Michigan territory, was here in conference with local officials of the company yesterday.

DIABETES

The probabilities under Fulton's Diabetic Compound seem to us to be about as follows:

In cases of sixty years and over reports have been so encouraging that it is our belief that recovery or control that prolongs life in reasonable comfort is possible in nearly nine-tenths of the cases.

While at fifty a majority of all cases appear to respond to the treatment below fifty and approaching forty the disease gets more stubborn, and between thirty and forty the percentage is not high and we cannot make strong claims.

Under thirty the percentage is very low and in children recoveries have been rare and most of these were obtained through the aid of skilled physicians keeping the liver active, promoting nutrition and giving alkalines when necessary to control acetones.

Fulton's Diabetic Compound can be had at the D. & N. Pharmacy.

It does not conflict with physicians' prescriptions. But where patients require codein we desire to submit something milder that contains no opium.

We desire every patient not improving the third week to write us. Always state age. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery Street, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., March 8.—Disquiet over the lightness of stocks at Liverpool served today to lift the price of wheat. May started at $1.04 to $1.04⅛, but reacted to $1.03¾.

Subsequently prices went yet lower, as a result of shipments to Chicago from sections that for supplies usually draw on this city. The close was weak, ⅛@¼c down, at $1.03½@1.03⅝.

Talk of a bumper yield in Argentina tended to weaken corn. May opened at 71½c to 71⅝c and sagged then to 71c.

Realizing led to a further decline. The close was steady, however, at 71¼c for May corn, ⅛c under last night.

Heavy selling by a leading house took the snap out of oats. May started at 52¾@52⅞c to 52⅞c, but sagged to 52⅝c.

Strength at the yards had a reflection in the provision pit. First transactions with July options were $15.87½ for pork, $9.40 for lard, and $8.77½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, March 8.—A considerable degree of strength was shown at the opening of today's stock market. Initial trading in United States Steel consisted of 3,000 shares at from 65¼ to 65⅝, compared with yesterday's closing of 64⅝. The Harriman stocks, the Hill issues, particularly Great Northern preferred, Erie first preferred, Canadian Pacific and American Smelting all advanced from substantial fractions to a full point. Reading was active.

Perhaps the most significant feature of the first hour was the market's increasing breadth, trading no longer being restricted to the speculative leaders and stocks of obvious "pool" origin. Numerous issues other than steel and Union Pacific scored new high records for the movement, but the advance was partially checked by realizing for profits.

Activity waned toward midday, but the dullness had no material effect on prices. Demand for equipment stocks, including American Locomotive, Pressed Steel Car, American Car and Foundry, and several others, all of which made smart gains, was supposed to be in anticipation of impending orders by the transportation companies. Standard Oil continued its spectacular rise on the "curb," selling up to 900. Bonds were steady.

The market closed steady. Trading in the final hour reflected conflicting conditions. Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting increasing their early gains, while Union Pacific and United States Steel fell back to the low level of the day. In the main the market's tone indicated another period of digestion.

SPOOL BOYS AIDS THE CONVICT MAN

Used in Previous Murder Attempt, It Helps Weave Net.

DRUG PUT INTO BEER

Henderson, Ky., March 8.—A spool box which had no direct connection with the case on trial, was instrumental in convincing a jury that Philip Burris was guilty of poisoning Henry Royster, a brother of Blanche Royster, to whom Burris was engaged to be married.

The theory of the state was that Burris administered strychnine to the Royster family in beer that he had provided for a social evening. It developed that, although Burris was living at the Royster home without paying board, his suit for the daughter of the house was opposed by members of the family. The motive alleged by the state, around which the circumstantial net was woven, was that Burris wanted to dispose of the entire family and marry Blanche when she inherited the considerable property of Thomas T. Royster, her father.

It seems the family drank sparingly of the beer Burris provided except Henry and a negro cook, "Ret" Davis. The latter emptied the bottles when they were taken to the kitchen and was the first to die. All the Roysters were made ill, but only Henry died.

Spool Box in Previous Case.

The spool box was not connected with this poisoning but with a previous attempt to poison the family with a sample package of coffee sent by mail. The coffee was used, but because of a bitter taste none drank much of it and that which was not used was allowed to remain in the cupboard, and after Henry's death, was analyzed and found to contain strychnine.

The coffee was mailed in Henderson, Ky., but the spool box which held it was of a sort that was not sold in Henderson, but that brand of thread was sold in Goodletsville, Tenn., where Burris was known to have been about that time. It was charged that he was undoubtedly the person who mailed the first poison, and that he resorted to the beer because his previous plot failed.

State's Theory Ridiculed.

Burris pleaded poverty and J. W. Clay and J. R. Barbour were appointed to defend him. Clay, in his address to the jury, ridiculed the theory of motive presented by the state and asserted the elder Royster's intended marriage, which was opposed by his children, was as much a motive for him to kill his family as was the opposition of the Royster family to Burris' marriage a motive for the latter to administer poison.

Burris, it was shown, recently had obtained money from his fiancee and had spent it carousing with other men and women. This fact the defense did not attempt to gloss over and it is said to have weighed heavily with the jurors.

NEWS TRAVELS IN HOSPITALS

Wireless Outdone in Rapidity with Which Patients Get Forbidden Information.

"A very efficient system of wireless telegraphy exists in every hospital," said the nurse. "Apparently all patients have the knack of transmitting messages, otherwise the news of serious cases would not travel so quickly and accurately from ward to ward. It is contrary to the rules for hospital attendants to retail gossip, and most of them do observe strict secrecy, yet notwithstanding that precaution there is never an interesting case in the building whose history is not known and discussed in the remotest corner.

"Last week a boy suffering from a peculiar kind of throat trouble was brought into a first floor ward. The doctors were very much interested in the case, yet they took special pains never to mention it in the hearing of another patient. But for all the good their caution did they might as well have lectured on the case in every ward; for when the boy died men and women all about the hospital said to the nurses:

"'So that poor boy died, did he? I guess there wasn't much hope for him from the start.'

"Now, how did the news travel?"

NOT YET APPRISED OF LOSS

But Mourners Would Be Plentiful When They Came to Realize Their Bereavement.

Cohn and Goldberg went into the diamond business. They got about $100,000 worth of diamonds on credit.

"Now, how vill ve make it a success?" asked Goldberg.

"I got it," answered Cohn. "We will put the diamonds in a coffin and ship it to Canada and you and I will go as chief mourners along to Canada."

So they got two black suits, black bordered handkerchiefs and all the trappings for mourning. They accompanied the coffin to Montreal. As the baggage man took the coffin out of the baggage car they stood beside it crying.

"Are you the only mourners?" asked the baggage man.

"Yes, right now," responded Cohn. "But in 30 days there will be more mourners and in 60 days still more mourners."—New York World.

In the Profesh.

A negress, very fat and well along in years, sauntered into the lobby of a Broadway theater the other day and asked for the manager.

"What can I do for you, mammy?" asked the manager.

"I want a ticket into the gallery, boss," she replied calmly.

"But why should I give you a ticket?"

"Cos I'm a retired actress."

"You? What did you do?" inquired the other in amusement.

"I played in 'Antony and Cleopatra.' I was fan-bearer for Miss Fanny Davenport."

LEADING REFORM AT HOT SPRINGS

"Umbrella Bills" to Drive Out Gambling and Illegal Liquor Traffic.

WOMAN REAL CHIEF

Hot Springs, Ark., March 8.—The announcement made herewith that Mr. and Mrs. "Umbrella Bill" McGuigan are leading the reform forces in the present campaign in Hot Springs, doubtless will cause the sporting fraternity throughout the country to sit up in amazement.

It probably is more accurate to say that Mrs. McGuigan is leading them, but "Umbrella Bill" is right there with the hearty approval of everything she is doing, and the only reason he is not directing the campaign is his belief that his wife can do it much better.

Mrs. McGuigan is giving such a good account of herself in the fight to drive gambling and illegal liquor traffic from the community that all who are working to that goal have come to look upon her as the proper person to lead.

Followed the Races.

There was a time when Mrs. McGuigan was not the foe of the gambler. Her husband followed the races over the entire world and had a string of thoroughbreds second to none. He was ruled off the track and about twenty years ago came to Hot Springs to reside. He purchased a farm a short distance from town, and the old Essex track, which is now growing more dilapidated yearly, is located upon a part of this purchase.

Several years ago McGuigan experienced a turn in his moral views and began the fight on the gamblers of Hot Springs, alleging they were ruining the resort. His health failed and Mrs. McGuigan was drawn into the fight. She entered it with heart and soul and her husband gradually worked to the background, the battle now being waged by Mrs. McGuigan, with the assistance of "Umbrella Bill," who is a mere shadow of his former self.

The McGuigans first began the real fight of their lives about four years ago, when Orland H. Sumpter, an attorney of Hot Springs and the alleged advocate of the racing and other elements, was named as the democratic nominee for the state senate from Garland county. Charles D. Greaves, an attorney of Hot Springs, a republican, made the race against Sumpter and would have been elected, it was alleged, but for the throwing out of the votes in four townships by the election commissioners.

Fight Taken to Senate.

The fight was taken to the senate, where Mrs. McGuigan and her daughter took their seats and remained until a decision was reached. They claim a victory in this fight, because Sumpter was not seated, though Greaves did not get the place. Governor Donaghey was called upon to fill the vacancy and appointed J. L. Wadley, a Hot Springs newspaper man.

The McGuigans then went west, settling in California, but the call of their political clan was too great and they came back.

"I am not fighting any man because he is a gambler," says Mrs. McGuigan, "for it is not a fight against men, but against sin. I would work tomorrow to get a job for the man who is a gambler today if he would come to me and show he has really decided to reform. I am in the fight for God and right."

The chief weapon of the McGuigans is publicity. McGuigan first started the issuance of circulars in the Sumpter-Greaves campaign and it proved so successful he has continued it, and is now preparing a new edition for the coming campaign.

Before the McGuigans left Hot Springs for the west, they personally secured burning orders for gambling apparatus and informed the officials where it could be found. The officers, it is declared, declined to serve the orders unless the gamblers were notified they were coming, which meant the furniture would be carted away and that an empty room would be found by the officers on their arrival.

Circulars Are Issued.

The McGuigans then tried to work on the grand jury to secure indictments against officials, and, failing in this, decided to work for the election of officials who would enforce the law. This caused them to devote much time and money to the issuance of circulars in favor of Judge J. B. Wood, the reform candidate for prosecuting attorney, who was elected. His hands were tied because other officials, it is alleged, favored gambling.

They continued the fight, and when the judicial district was divided by the late legislature, the McGuigans were largely instrumental in the appointment of C. T. Cotham by Governor Donaghey, as judge of the new district in which Hot Springs is located.

Even with this handicap, the gambling element was preparing for a "killing" this year, and one gambler is said to have leased a building in the heart of the city for six years, paying down $9,000 as the next year's rent, and handing the occupant of the building $2,800 to vacate within a certain time.

Then the McGuigans came back, arriving last October. McGuigan was in such poor health that he spent most of the time in bed, but still they continued to fight.

Pool Tables Seized.

When Sheriff Sid Houpt was removed from office, Charles Webb was appointed by the court to serve until something was done by the governor. He appointed Hugh L. Hale, allied with the reform element. This is the man Mrs. McGuigan would rather have seen in the place than any other, for she says there is not enough money in Hot Springs to buy him, and Hale has followed the game as the McGuigans would have it played, even seizing pool tables, which showed signs of having been used for gambling purposes.

Now there are several candidates in the race for prosecuting attorney and sheriff. Mrs. McGuigan declares they will have little difficulty in re-electing Judge Wood, but believes "Bob" Williams, the "Little Czar," as the reform element referred to him in the olden days, when he was sheriff, will receive the democratic nomination for sheriff. She also believes she will be able to defeat him in the general election.

Women Will Help.

Mrs. McGuigan is preparing a series of pamphlets which will be issued over her name, attacking the candidates who are not allied with the reform interests. She will follow the joint campaigners over the district and meet the voters personally while distributing her literature. She will be accompanied by a number of women from Hot Springs who have gone on such jaunts in former primary elections.

Father, Mother, Sister Brother, All Should Use Parisian Sage

Prevents Baldness — Banishes Dandruff — Stops Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

PARISIAN SAGE is a family hair tonic and dressing that will do much good in every home.

The man who uses PARISIAN SAGE if only occasionally will never grow bald. Baldness is caused by dandruff germs which dig down into the roots of the hair, devour its nourishment and cause the root to die and the hair to fall and thin out.

MONEY BACK DANDRUFF REMOVER

PARISIAN SAGE is a scientific hair remedy that not only kills the dandruff germs, but gives the hair root just the same nourishment that nature gives it.

PARISIAN SAGE first kills the germs; then nourishes the weakened hair root and causes a growth of healthy hair.

This same nourishment (PARISIAN SAGE) causes the hair to grow vigorous which means that the hair becomes full of life and lustre, and grows radiant and beautiful.

Thousands are wasting time, losing hair and growing bald because they are using superficial tonics. While they may clean the scalp and make it feel refreshed, they do not get to the root of the hair where the real destroyer of hair, the pernicious dandruff germs, thrives and multiplies.

Try PARISIAN SAGE for all hair trouble; it means death to the germs; life to the hair. It is pleasant to use and so harmless that it can be used by every member of the family from the oldest to the little tot.

Get a 50 cent bottle today and if you are not satisfied that it is just as good as claimed, your money back without any squabbling. Sold by Meyer Bros. Co. and druggists everywhere. Girl with Auburn hair on every carton and bottle.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor or acid in the blood; the cuticle is always healthy where the circulation is free from impurities. When the blood is infected with acrid or unhealthy matter it cannot perform its natural work of nourishing the skin, regulating its temperature and preserving its normal softness, pliability and healthfulness. Instead it irritates and inflames the delicate fibres and tissues around the pores and glands and produces some of the many forms of skin disease. The itching and stinging so often accompanying skin affections are produced by the deposit from the blood of the acrid humors with which it is filled, into the sensitive membranous flesh lying just beneath the outer covering, and surrounding the countless nerves, pores and glands. This explains why scratching the outer skin affords no relief from the itching and burning. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every character by purifying the blood. It goes down into the circulation and removes the humors or acids which are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and permanently cures every variety of skin affection. Local applications can only soothe; they never cure because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes right into the circulation, reaches the trouble and cures it by removing the cause. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

HE FEARED BURIAL ALIVE.

London, March 8.—Explicit directions for the avoidance of premature burial were contained in the will of Thomas Douglas Murray, who died Nov. 21 last, aged 70 years, leaving an estate valued at $141,440.

He directed that on his apparent death his body should be kept in a well-warmed bed thirty-six hours thereafter. His body then was to be placed in a coffin in a warm room with the windows partly opened, and watched four days and nights, or until definite signs of decomposition had set in.

During this period the tests given in a pamphlet by Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson, "The Signs and Proofs of Death," were to be applied, and during this period a bell was to be attached to his wrist which could be easily audible within and without the room.

When decomposition had set in a surgeon was to completely sever the spinal cord high up in the body, and the coffin could then be lightly fastened, but not be screwed down until the twentieth day after his death. His remains were then to be cremated and the ashes scattered to the four winds of heaven.

KANSAS SURELY KIND TO WOMAN

Sunflower State Gives Her Many Privileges Under Law.

THINGS SHE CAN DO

Topeka, Kan., March 7. If there are any women in this broad land who feel that their sphere of activity is curtailed by the laws of the states in which they live, Kansas will extend a welcoming hand to them. Kansas just dotes on being nice to the women folk and there are few restrictive laws in this state, as compared to other states. In only a few of the eastern states can women practice law, but there are more than sixty women in the active practice of the law in Kansas. There are more than one hundred women physicians, not counting the numerous osteopaths and chiropractors.

It is asserted by no less an authority than the attorney general of Kansas, John S. Dawson, that no state has more liberal provisions than Kansas has for the women. Just notice the things a woman can do in Kansas.

What She Can Do.

She may retain her maiden name when she is married.

She may persuade her husband to give up his own name and take her maiden name.

She may retain her maiden name and her husband retain his name.

She may retain her maiden name for business and take her husband's name for social intercourse.

She may hold property that her husband cannot touch and may sell it without asking him.

She can hold any state office, county office or district office, but cannot vote for any of these. There are now eighty women holding county elective positions and more than 200 have announced their candidacies for county elective offices.

She can hold any elective school district or municipal office. There is one woman mayor in Kansas, Mrs. Ellen Wilson, of Hunnewell, and many school boards are managed by women.

She can wear men's trousers if she desires, but must not pretend to be a man. As long as she wears trousers as a woman she cannot be arrested. Men are prohibited from wearing dresses in public, even though they boldly proclaim themselves to be men.

Men Are Appreciative.

Kansas men fully appreciate the women of the state. This is shown by the fact that a majority of the county superintendents of public instruction are women and that the number of other positions in county offices, heretofore held to be sacred to the men, are being filled successfully by the women. In many counties women are county clerks, treasurers and registers of deeds and not a single one of these counties would dispense with women in their offices.

There never is any question of scandal in any office held by a woman in Kansas. There never has been a shortage in an account and the work was always done in the best possible shape and in the quickest time.

There are eighteen Kansas women who manage farms, five who are presidents of banks, more than thirty who are the owners and managers of big business houses, and many others who are active in the business affairs of the state. Mrs. Mary G. Cooper is probate judge of Mitchell county, and has married more than 300 couples during her four years, and only four have sought the divorce courts.

ANDERSON IS GETTING READY

Expects Big Delegation of Fort Wayne Elks at Convention.

PLANS GREAT EVENT

Anderson, Ind., March 8.—The members of the state executive committee of the Elks' lodge in Madison county are busy making arrangements for the state convention to be held in this city May 22-24.

Exalted Ruler Forseman, of Muncie lodge, has appointed the following "boosting" committee in his lodge to further the advancement of the state reunion: Messrs. F. L. Wachtell, Charles Emerson, Harry Gullett, Jerry Keever and Ross Boone. Muncie is coming to the state reunion in force and will be accompanied by a band.

The Fort Wayne lodge sent its lodge custodian here to get advertising matter that the Fort Wayne lodge will distribute throughout the northeastern part of the state. Fort Wayne also sent word that it will send 200 members with the Fort Wayne Military band of fifty-six pieces by special train.

Will Use Autos.

The South Bend lodge has sent word that it is planning to come by automobiles, and would probably make an extra automobile parade by South Bend Elks, if permitted to do so.

Harold VanOrman, exalted ruler of the Evansville lodge, has wired the hotel committee to at once reserve twenty-five rooms for the Evansville lodge and band.

Sam Rosenberg, of the Indianapolis lodge, said that Indianapolis lodge will send 400 members and two bands to the state meeting.

It is said that the expense of the state meetings will be in the neighborhood of $2,000 and that a third of that amount has been raised.

Chairman Alford, of the music committee of the state reunion, is arranging to have all the bands over the state that will accompany delegations, rehearse three musical numbers and, on the second day of the reunion, all assemble under one director and play. The Metropolitan band will decorate its band rooms and have the visiting bands use the rooms as headquarters during the reunion. It is expected that there will be not less than twenty-five or thirty bands here with the lodges to participate in the parade.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Majestic Theater Vaudeville is Proving a Treat for the Children.

It is seldom that the theatergoers have the pleasure of witnessing such a strong array of vaudeville talent at the prices charged by the Majestic theater management. Every one of the eight acts is entertaining and when the show is out you are sent away with the satisfaction of having spent a very pleasant and profitable entertainment.

Heading the program is Marzella's trained birds, acknowledged to be the best bird act in vaudeville. Another big feature is the Great Francellia and company in the greatest of all heavy weight juggling acts in which some daring and dangerous feats are introduced. Others on the bill are Will Hart, a black faced comedian with some new songs and stories; Mae Keough and company in a laughable little sketch, "The Typewriter Girl;" Caldwell and Pelton in a dressy singing and talking act; the McCall trio, Cycling Rosey and Casad, Irwin and Casad.

At the matinee tomorrow all of the seats on the lower floor will be reserved.
